Stingy Peace Not Wanted.
Can You Write an Anthem?
Out of the Cradle.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1928.)

HIRAM JOHNSON says he will work for Hoover, and that disposes of California, if there were any doubt as to Hoover's home state.

When Senator Johnson says a thing he means it, and no one will be more surprised than he if California does not show a gigantic Hoover victory.

AND, in the language of the day, "that goes double for Gov. Smith and Senator Jim Reed, in Missouri." Certain men carry other men along with them by sheer force of sincerity. Johnson and Reed are men of that kind.

SOON the Senate will be asked to ratify the peace treaty, or whatever it may prove to be, prepared by this country and eagerly accepted by Europe—a little too eagerly, perhaps.

THE Senate will think it over carefully, and wise Senators will not like the suggestion that we cut down our Navy cost—unless the money saved is spent on a fighting air fleet. Only a silly country would substitute a scrap of paper for real defense.

To make a peace agreement effective, put airships and submarines back of it.

MRS. BROOKS-ATEN offers $6,000 in prizes for a new national anthem. The idea is to get something that will not offend anybody, Britain especially.

There is no such anthem. Men are not ready for them.

BUT you might have a national song about the factories, gold reserve, oil wells and rising stock prices. That would suit many no longer interested in the rocket's red glare, or bombs bursting in air.

The trouble is, from Mrs. Brooks-Aten's viewpoint, that if we had any real trouble, the people would hurry back to the good old "Say, can you see."

"OUT of the cradle endlessly rocking," we all came, poetically speaking. It is considered bad medicine now to rock the baby. It shakes his little brain. Evolution tells you that rocking babies pacifies them, because the wind used to rock our monkey-like ancestors, living in trees. Many a fundamentalist will stop rocking the baby for that reason, who would not stop for doctors.

ELLEN TERRY after death goes back to the cradle. By her desire her ashes will rest in a pretty, white cradle designed by her son. That seems an improvement on the usual gold urn.

JOSE DE LEON TORAL, who killed Obregon, has made a full confession, according to the chief of police. The outside world will not know what pressure brought that confession.

LUIS MORONES, Minister of Labor, has resigned and is hiding, accused by the agrarians of instigating Obregon's murder. Mexico seemed on the point of a civil war between city labor unions and the farmers. Morones' disappearance may avert that.

THE Irish Free State decides the time has not come to invite King George to his dominion in the south of Ireland. The Free State would gladly welcome the King, but fears that ardent Irish Republicans might feel and act otherwise. With them, to feel is to act.

MANY Irishmen, and women especially, still keep in mind Cromwell's short letter from Ireland, which ran about as follows:

"I have pacified this island. I shot every tenth man, the rest I sent to the galleys, the monks I knocked on the head.—Oliver Cromwell."

LIEUT. PAULIN PARIS, fine young Frenchman, is on his way, west bound, across the Atlantic, on his seaplane La Fregate. He comes by way of the Azores, which Lindbergh calls the best route for trans-Atlantic flight. Lindbergh chose the longer, more dangerous water hop, to win a prize that would pay his expenses. Money was not plentiful with him, a year ago.

Lieut. Paris will get welcomed and men like him will keep France ahead in aviation.

THE two big parties will spend $10,000,000 on the campaign and if honestly spent without ballot-box corruption, that is not a large sum, less than 10 cents per inhabitant.

Many million dollars will be spent, not accounted for, dollars that the two finance committees will not handle. The law cannot reach that.

Amelia Advises Girls

By WILLIAM PFARR.
Staff Correspondent.

EN ROUTE TO PITTSBURGH ON THE EARHART SPECIAL TRAIN, July 24.—A boyish blonde who has come to be known as "Lady Lindy" is sleeping now in a state-room of a private car and dreaming, possibly, that all of Pittsburgh's millionaires have dedicated their last dollar to aviation. She may be picturing in her dreams acres of landing ports atop Fifth avenue's buildings and scores of tiny planes escorting husbands to their offices and wives to the hair dressers.

It was just an hour or so ago that Amelia Earhart, cross-examining a reporter for the Sun-Telegraph, wanted to know what was being done with all the currency that industry brought to Pittsburgh.

"I'd like to see some of your steel magnates and big business men get interested in aviation," Miss Earhart hoped. "That's what aviation needs."

AVIATION FOR GIRLS

The reporter suggested that Miss Earhart advise Pittsburgh girls who have ample leisure to take up aviation, the better to fly the Atlantic some day.

"No, I'd like to see their daddies take it up. Let these rich girls ride in planes and talk about aviation. Then we'll get better planes. When the women

Amelia Earhart, real-life princess of little girls' dreams, came to them in Pittsburgh today.

With a heart undaunted by the perils of the mighty Atlantic, the same slender, freckled "Lady Lindy" appeared on the observation platform of her train in the Pennsylvania Station this morning, saw the surging thousands before her, heard the thunder of their voices and cheers in her ears—and trembled.

Just like a woman!

When the hand clapping and clamor had died down, Lady Lindy, still too frightened to speak, but with her companions, Wilmer Stultz and Lou Gordon, and President of Council James F. Malone assisting her—stepped slowly to the platform, and the din burst out anew.

POLICE BATTLE CROWDS

Squads of blue-coats fought the crowd to hold them back. It was 20 minutes before she was able, with the help of the committee of reception, her associates, the police's finest, to gain the open sunshine and the car assigned to her.

She smiled.

She stopped timidly for photographers.

Then, bundled in a car with Stultz and Gordon and Malone, she rode off to another victory—that over Pittsburgh. And it was as complete, and for her more appalling than the victory over the ocean.

A train of motor cars made a gala procession behind her. They drove slowly down Liberty avenue, protected by Leo Coleman, assistant superintendent of police, and a regiment of motorcycle officers.

Crowds jammed the sidewalks and streets of Liberty and Fifth avenues. Men and women—and many little girls lifted high over their parents' heads—welcomed her. From the sidewalks, from the doorways of buildings and stores, from the city streets and the windows of skyscrapers and office buildings, they showered her with applause—handclapping, cheers and a shower of torn paper. American flags bedecked the curbs. Through this she made her way to the City-County Building.

BRIDE IN PROCESSION

In the car following her was the bride of Lou Gordon, also Mrs. Stultz, Miss Margaret Mann, Lady Lindy's secretary, and George Palmer Putnam, the air heroes' financial backer.

On the steps of the City-County Building, Councilman Malone introduced the visitors to a crowd of 2,000 and to hundreds of office girls who filled window space in the adjoining buildings to see "her."

"We're disappointed only because you can't stay longer," Malone told Miss Earhart.

"And we're sorry we can't stay longer," Miss Earhart responded in a short speech.

Malone then introduced Stultz and Gordon and their wives and presented each of the visitors with a key to the city. The automobile tour of the city followed.

Bridges and tunnels, boulevards and hills, with a glimpse of the mills of Pittsburgh thrown in for good measure. That, said Miss Earhart, and the hearty welcome given her, were the impressions which she would carry away as the result of her hasty visit here.

It is doubtful if any distinguished visitor to the city was

Boats Vie For River Crown

By JOHN P. COWAN,
Staff Correspondent.

CINCINNATI, O., July 24.—Everybody's looking up the river today—up there where the beautiful Ohio bends away from the Clermont hills toward the old Kentucky shore—where late this afternoon is to be witnessed perhaps the greatest steamboat race on inland waters in more than 50 years.

Down at the wharf those rival queens of the Ohio River packets—the Betsy Ann, proud possessor of the gilded elk horns of championship, and the Chris Greene, contender for new records and new honors, are ready for the signal which will start them on their race over a 20-mile course up the Ohio yonder to New Richmond. Each boat having a speed of from eight to 10 miles an hour against the normal current, there will be no marking up of new maritime records, but this fact does not lessen the interest which the entire Ohio valley population is taking in this unique contest.

A tap of the boat's bell on the Betsy Ann at 6 p. m., Pittsburgh daylight saving time, and an answering tap from the bell of the Chris Greene will be the signal for the start of the contest. Both packets will be lined up abreast of the central bridge across the Ohio between Cincinnati and Newport, Ky., each with a full head of steam

DAWSON FACES GIANTS

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Sun-Telegraph Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, July 24.—Manager Donie Bush of the very much up and coming Pirates was forced to call upon one of his second string hurlers to take the hill against the Giants in the first game of the series with the McGrawmen here this afternoon.

Joe Dawson, the Louisville airman, has been selected for the job and will be on the firing line for the Buccos. It was a case of either putting his trust in a second-string man or calling upon a regular to work out of turn, and the little manager of the Bucs elected to take the former course.

Yesterday the Pirates downed the Brooklyn Dodgers in the final game of the seven-fray, inter-city series by a 2-to-1 score. Fred Fussell was the hero of the clash, as he turned back the Robins in world-beater fashion.

Don't Fly To Reduce —Amelia

By BERNICE SHINE.

DON'T take up aviation if you think you are going to reduce while zipping through the clouds, for you won't. Amelia Earhart says so, and she ought to know. During her whole trip over the Atlantic Ocean she didn't lose a pound, she shyly admitted at the Pennsylvania Station this morning.

But ever since the termination of her notable flight over the Atlantic she has been losing steadily. Receptions and handshaking and accepting keys to cities are entertaining, she thinks, but like lots of things, are pretty exhausting—much more so than ocean flying.

NO DIET WORRIES

Not that Amelia has to worry about diets or ways of reducing, for she is exceptionally slender, even in this day with its boyish figure vogue. Yet there is nothing frail looking about this tall girl, and there is a great deal of strength of character suggested in her face.

Next to dieting there is nothing so arresting to women as costumes. One might have expected the first woman to fly over the Atlantic Ocean to affect a rather masculine dress and at least to wear flat-heeled shoes. But Amelia in her quiet way seems to do the unexpected. She had on the highest of spike heeled slippers, fashioned out of lizard skin. And she likes cos-

Political "Ifs."

If Smith had polled 11 more votes yesterday in The Sun-Telegraph's straw vote on machines, he would have beaten Hoover exactly 2 to 1.

As it was, the Democratic candidate registered 493 votes on the six voting machines about the city to his Republican opponent's 252.

The total ballots continue to roll up into the tens of thousands, more than 36,000 votes having been counted since The Sun-Telegraph started out to find how Pittsburgh and its vicinity lean toward the presidential candidates.

MACHINE AT WEST VIEW

So insistent is the call for voting machines in sections of the city not favored with them yet, that today there will be a shift in locations. A machine will be placed in West View Park, where picnics of large proportions are scheduled for the week. A machine will also be stationed in the produce district at Nineteenth and Pike streets. The plan is to sound sentiment in various parts of the community, hence the frequent changes of position.

Results recorded by the machines yesterday follow:

Eastward She Steamed!

AMELIA AT THE THROTTLE

Amelia Earhart, queen of the Atlantic heights, with her own hand pulled the throttle that hissed out the echoes of Pittsburgh's roaring welcome and sent her long train to the East grinding on over the Pennsylvania tracks. Here, a Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph photographer records for you Amelia's last farewell to Pittsburgh.

RIDES ENGINE IN OVERALLS

"Now I feel at home," said Miss Earhart as she emerged from her private car clad in brown overalls and wearing an engineer's cap. "Grime and grease and soot don't bother me," she continued.

Lightly she scrambled into the cab of the big locomotive and took her place with Engineman John C. Sloan, of Wilkinsburg, and Fireman Herman Woller, of Pittsburgh. The only evidence of feminine wearing apparel visible as she went into the cab was a glimpse of high-heeled shoes and silk stockings.

As the train pulled out for New York, a great cheer went up from those gathered on the platform and the last seen of Miss Earhart was her famous smile as from the cab window she waved her farewell to Pittsburgh.

Miss Earhart, who has driven airplanes, motor trucks, speed boats and fast motor cars can make the entire run to New York in the locomotive cab if she so desires, although when she left Pittsburgh she said she intended to ride only as far as Greensburg. In this the Pennsylvania Railroad placed no limit leaving the cab ride to be as long or as short as she desired.

The permit to ride in the cab which was handed to Engineman

Do Home and Job Conflict? -:- Can Wives Work? -:- These Girls Answer for You!

"WHEN A FAMILY IS SENT, I'LL GIVE UP MY WORK"

JOB, HOME CHILD'S PLAY

MRS. MARGARET BROWN, 1321 Mississippi avenue, Dormont, says:

"I'm holding my job and keeping house, too. It really works just fine. At first Charles was dubious—but he soon got over it when he saw that I sincerely wanted to work and I could be a home-maker, too. It is child's play to keep house for two people. I would get into mischief if I didn't stay in business. Idle wives do, you know. I've seen plenty of them!"

NO APPROVING MAN

LOUISE KING, 155 North Craig street, says:

"I'm not thinking of getting married because I haven't met a man who approved of a career for me. Work after I'm married! I'll tell the world I won't! Not in an office—that is. I'm old-fashioned; call me lazy if you like. I think I can stand a little relaxation and a few spare moments without going out and getting into trouble. Bridge wives are no worse than golf husbands! Me for the old clinging vine stuff."

WORKING AND HAPPY

MRS. MARIE DRUM, Latrobe, married two years, says:

"I love to work. Sundays I cook for my husband. Edgar doesn't object to my ambition. He knows that I love children and when a family is sent to us I will give the work up. My mother raised five girls and seven boys, so there isn't a thing I don't know about housework, because I had to help. We take our meals out—except Sundays—and we're very happy."

SOON SHE WILL MARRY

SALLY BRAUN, 1315 Shannon road, Carrick, engaged, says:

"At first I thought Dave would pass out at the idea of my working after our marriage. I said I certainly wouldn't loaf all day dallying at the little housework we will have at first. I won. I will always put my home and husband first. If it doesn't work out, I'll give up the job."

ROADHOUSE HELD UP, THREE LOCKED IN

A gunman, aged about 40, walked into the Red Tiles Inn, a roadhouse on the Library road betwen Castle Shannon and Library, at 2 a. m. today and leveled a pistol at the proprietor, Jack Sorkrot; the waiter, L. Meisel, and the one remaining guest.

"Stick 'em up," the visitor commanded, "and keep 'em there. You"—he pointed to the guest—"go through them."

The guest accepted the advice. He emptied not only his own pockets, but those of Sorkrot and the waiter, and he drew upon the cash register. Then he handed over $300 to the gunman.

"Now," the gunman requested, "get in here." And he locked the three victims in the washroom. Then he snipped the telephone wire. On the way out—presumably to a waiting auto—he saw the watchdog—a young bull. He took that, too.

ever whirled at such speed through Pittsburgh. She smiled when this speed was mentioned to her and intimated that speed was her bread and butter. And during the trip practically all the time Miss Earhart was again literally up in the air.

Across the Liberty Bridge the procession sped, then along the new Mt. Washington road. High up on Grandview avenue on Mt. Washington, with an excellent view of the city below. Then through some of the highways and byways, down hill and into the Liberty tunnels with the sirens of the motorcycle escort screeching traffic out of the way. "That was a great thrill, that tunnel," the youthful aviatrix said.

And then back across the Liberty Bridge, down Sixth to Grant street and to the station. Just 20 minutes had passed from the time the party had left the City-County Building. The guests and their escort were taken as hurriedly to the Pennsylvania Station.

There she talked for a few minutes, thanking Councilman Malone and the others for the kind reception, expressing the hope that she will return soon to re-visit the city whose money and people—Miss Amy Phipps in particular—made her trans-Atlantic flight possible. She parried a question as to whether she planned any future long-distance air trips with the remark that she would have to get "Back in the air to get a rest from these celebrations." She then donned overalls, hopped into the engine (for she would ride with the engineer as far as Greensburg) and departed for New York.

The train pulled out at 10.25 a. m.

Boats Vie For River Crown

and ready for a test of their endurance.

The river here shows a stage of 18 feet, which is six feet above pool level. The wickets are down at the locks and the contenders will speed unimpeded on their way, with the Betsy a favorite. She will leave here with 150 passengers, composed chiefly of members of a special Pittsburgh party and a goodly number of Cincinnatians. Two generations of the people here know the doughty Betsy Ann and hundreds gathered at the wharf during the day to express their faith in her and wish her good luck.

DECLARE HOLIDAY

Cincinnati declared a sort of holiday and thousands swarmed to the wharf. Sea sleds and speed boats ripped up and down the stream and airplanes roared overhead. Sirens whined and motorists blared their horns. All in celebration of the greatest day on the river since the channel of the Ohio has been opened to the Mississippi. Mayor Murray Seasongood and City Manager C. O. Sherrill are taking part officially and other public officials are recognizing the event.

This is no mere race for the possession of those gilded elk horns which the old Betsy Ann won in her prime when she showed her prowess on the Mississippi and many a good craft was humbled by falling in the lee of her sternboard. This is to be an event of world-wide importance—a contest calling back from the days of misty memories the romantic traditions of the old river trade. It brings to mind those days of real sport when Master Pilot Sam Clemens shouted the order, "mark twain," and gave himself the pseudonym that clung to him through life; it brings back recollections of the memorable voyages between Pittsburgh and Cincinnati of those staunch old steamers, the C. W. Batchelor, the Eagle, and those other craft in whose cabins gentlemen in mustaches, black broadcloth clothes and high boots made love to ladies in corkscrew curls, rustling silks and six-foot hoopskirts.

BET HIGH IN OLD DAYS

And while the ladies whispered behind their fans, the gentlemen drank strong liquor and played cards for big stakes. And they had races, too; gunwale-to-gunwale rival packets zigzagged against the swirling Ohio current and battled bow alongside through the raging eddies. Up on the hurricane deck ladies waved their kerchiefs to encourage the crews and tugged at their bonnet-strings when the race seemed in doubt, while the gentlemen toasted their favorite from glasses that sparkled and posted their faith by bets of startling odds. In the galleys the ebony-hued cooks sometimes forgot to season their pheasants and venison or let the corn pone and puddings burn while they laid their "shinplasters" or their stock of gin on the chances of their own boat.

Don't tell anybody in Cincinnati or the other lower river towns that the best features of the old days are not coming back. You'll be unpopular if you do. Yes, the mustaches, the broadcloth, the boots, the corkscrew curls, the rustling silks, the long hoopskirts, the fans and the long fluttering bonnet-strings are gone, but the majestic Ohio—beautiful as ever—is still here and in the present generation is the same energy and ambition and the same spirit of honor and fair play that animated the people of half a century ago, who made the navigation of the western rivers the keystone to the commercial success of the country from Pittsburgh to Omaha.

So everything is "all set" for the great event this afternoon. Speed kings who skim the water in hydroplanes are in the discard; this has much of the unrivaled zest of a horse race, and all of the romance of a contest in which prowess and the human factor counts above all else. The boats will start at 6 p. m., Pittsburgh daylight saving time. The Betsy Ann, a trim sternwheeler, that used to be in the Natchez-New Orleans trade, is owned by Frederick Way, Jr., of Sewickley, Pa., and her master is Capt. Charles Ellsworth, one of the best known rivermen on the Ohio. The Betsy Ann was built in 1899, but despite her age has held her own against all rivals and that is why on her bow she carries the gilded elk horns, the token of her championship, which she won years ago on the Mississippi.

The Chris Greene is a new boat, named in honor of her master, Capt. Chris Greene. The Chris Greene is of the same class as the Betsy Ann and the race is bound to be close. Thousands of spectators are gathering on the river front awaiting the signal, and from miles back in the country, on both sides of the river, other thousands are coming to watch the history-making event. Just about the time today's sun sinks behind the Kentucky hills there will be a great roar of whistles and automobile horns and the ringing of bells from New Richmond steeples in honor of the winner—sounding the toesin of new and greater destinies for navigation of the Ohio.

MAJ. LANPHIER TO AID LINDY

DETROIT, July 24.—(A.P.)—Maj. Thomas G. Lanphier will become vice president in charge of operations of the newly formed Transcontinental Air Transport Company, of which Col. Charles A. Lindbergh is chairman of the board, as soon as his resignation from the Army becomes effective August 25, he announced today.

Maj. Lanphier's headquarters will be in New York, but he plans to spend most of his time flying over the country superintending the operations of the trans-continental lines, he said. He will continue to maintain his home at Mt. Clemens, near Selfridge Field, where he has served for five years as commandant and flight commander.

PITTSBURGHER AIDED AMELIA'S FLIGHT

Amelia Earhart, Boston welfare worker and amateur aviatrix, first woman to cross the Atlantic by air, landed at Burry Inlet, on the coast of Wales, at 12:40 p. m., English time, on June 18, last. She made the flight in 20 hours and 49 minutes from Trepassey, Newfoundland, and with her companions, Wilmer Stultz, pilot, and Lou Gordon, mechanic, battled rain and fog throughout her perilous course.

Crossing the raging sea, which is the grave of several other intrepid women who in the last 18 months have essayed to span the Atlantic Ocean by airplane, Miss Earhart has been hailed as the greatest heroine in the history of aviation. She received plaudits abroad and was welcomed to her native land with every mark of distinction and honor.

While engaged in social work in Boston, Miss Earhart qualified as an airplane pilot and won the patronage of Mrs. Frederick A. Guest, the former Amy Phipps, daughter of Henry Phipps, Pittsburgh manufacturer and philanthropist. Her flight was planned quietly and was given little publicity until her monoplane Friendship was ready to take off on its perilous journey. Trepassey, Newfoundland, was selected as the base for the flight and while the girl flier and Stultz and Godon were there preparing for the trans-ocean hop, fear was expressed that their venture might end tragically like those of Princess Lowenstein, Mrs. Frances Grayson and Lady Elsie Mackay, who had gone to death in their attempts to fly the Atlantic.

But no time was lost and at the first opportunity the Friendship swept out to sea and the whole world was relieved by the news flashed from London on the morning of June 18 that a safe landing had been made on the British coast. This intelligence confirmed a message sent a few hours earlier that the Friendship had been sighted by the steamer America off the southwest of Ireland. The south coast of England had been their goal, but Miss Earhart and her crew were obliged to come down on the coast of Wales on account of a shortage of fuel.

After a day at the little Welsh settlement, the Friendship again took flight and landed at Southampton on June 19, where Miss Earhart and her companions were received with marked enthusiasm, and welcomed on shore by the American consul. After a luncheon given by the lord mayor they proceeded to London, and from that hour till this "Lady Lindy" has been the heroine of the hour in America and Europe.

DOCTOR DEFIES GRILLING

MYSTERY PAIR KILLED WIFE, HE INSISTS

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., July 24.—Police today continued their investigation into the death of Mrs. Harry H. Hoffman, whose body was found in her home at Ashley early Sunday while her husband steadfastly holds to his story that the woman was killed by another woman and man who forced their way into the house and overpowered him.

For more than 36 hours Hoffman faced a barrage of questions by which police have sought to prove that he killed his wife. Throughout the grilling Hoffman has remained unshaken in his story.

EXPLAINS BLOOD

The doctor, a nerve-shaken shadow of his former self, insists that he and his wife were attacked by a mysterious man and woman. He alleges that he was overpowered, trussed up and gagged by the pair, but that later, after a period of unconsciousness, succeeded in freeing himself. Then he found Mrs. Hoffman dying on the floor. Police say blood was found under the finger nails of Dr. Hoffman, but he insists this came from lifting his wife's head when he had found her on the floor.

PARTED WITH KISS

Dr. Hoffman insists that late Saturday night after they had eaten watermelon together and chatted pleasantly he kissed her good-night and embraced her. Later he went to bed, he says, and then followed the attack by the mysterious man and woman.

The weapon with which Mrs. Hoffman was beaten has not been found.

PASTOR AND GIRL NAMED BY WIFE ASKING ALIMONY

NEW PHILADELPHIA, O., July 24.—Mrs. Laura Ash started alimony suit in Common Pleas Court yesterday against her husband, the Rev. Floyd L. Ash, pastor of the Methodist Protestant Church at Uhrichsville.

Mrs. Ash accuses her husband of cruelty and indiscretions with a girl who has been staying at the Ash home.

Mrs. Ash fears for her life because of her husband's threats, she charges.

TWO EMPLOYES HURT AS OIL PLANT BURNS

WOOD RIVER, Ill., July 24.—Two employes of the White Star Oil Company's refining plant here were burned seriously and thousands of dollars damage was incurred yesterday in a spectacular blae starting in the "slop pond" at the south end of the enclosure.

YOUTH FOUND STABBED

His body hacked, Ed Whittaker, 21, Negro, of 1301 Webster avenue, was found unconscious at 7 o'clock today in front of 1312 Bedford avenue. He was taken to Passavant Hospital. Police say he was stabbed in a fight in a house near where he was found. His condition is serious.

SCOUR CORAOPOLIS FOR ATTACKER

MAN DRESSED AS WOMAN TRAILED

The Coraopolis district is in the throes of a man hunt. A Negro, dressed in woman's clothing, is being sought by county detectives and borough police.

County Detectives Michael J. Ford and Ollie Alexander are leading the chase, after they learned this morning that the Negro had attacked a 14-year-old girl in Thorn Run Hollow road yesterday and escaped before neighbors could answer the alarm given by a younger companion.

The man hunt has reached intensity due to the repetition of the crime in that district each summer. Last year similar conditions resulted in the terrorizing of that and contiguous sections until a suspect was found in Beaver, who was charged with attacking a number of women.

Coraopolis police, who obtained a description of the man, say he wore, in addition to woman's clothing, a stocking cap.

ICE FUND AIDED BY 4 BOYS

Four Squirrel Hill boys showed some originality in the way they conducted their benefit for the Sun-Telegraph Milk and Ice Fund. They built a stand which they mounted on a small wagon and took from house to house on one of the recent warm afternoons. From this traveling store they sold lemonade, pop and ginger ale, realizing $2.25 for the fund. The ingenious salesmen were Charles and James Sibilia, David Harris and Philip Permar.

Contributions to the fund continue to come in daily, but they are none too many for the needs of the Pittsburgh and Allegheny Milk and Ice Association. The hundreds of babies which the association is caring for need constant watchfulness and attention and philanthropically inclined Pittsburghers should remember that the association's work goes right on whether the days be hot or whether they be cold, although the hot weather intensifies the task.

The fund today:

INSISTS SHE KILLED MATE; SENT TO ASYLUM

NORRISTOWN, Pa., July 24.—(AP.)—Persisting that she had shot and killed her husband and a woman last week, Dr. Virginia Alvarez Hussey today was removed to the State Hospital for Mental Diseases for treatment and observation.

The decision to send her to the hospital was taken after a dramatic scene in her cell. Lindley M. Hussey, writer and chemist, was taken there and asked his wife to recognize him.

"This cannot be my husband," she cried. "I shot him, and I saw him fall, and then I shot the woman."

Hussey was released last night in $2,000 bail from the Montgomery county prison to await a hearing on warrants charging non-support and a statutory offense. His wife swore out the warrants several days before she surrendered to police here last Friday and said she had killed him and a woman.

'FOX'S' ATTORNEYS ASK REHEARING ON APPEAL

LOS ANGELES, Cal., July 24.—Terming the California Supreme Court's decision affirming the death penalty for W. Edward Hickman, a "Frankstein monster," attorneys for the condemned kidnaper-killer of Marion Parker, today prepared a petition for a rehearing of his appeal. Ten asserted errors on the part of the state's highest tribunal are cited in the petition, to be filed by defense Attorneys Richard Cantillon and Frank Sievers.

LEOPARD CLAWS KEEPER, 150 FRIGHTENED AT ZOO

NEW YORK, July 24.—(AP.)—More than 150 persons in the lion house of the Central Park Zoo fled in terror when a yellow Indian leopard yesterday clawed Keeper Richard Ownes. The attack started the other animals in the house roaring. Ownes escaped with a cut right hand, which required six stitches. The keeper had just finished feeding the animals and was giving the leopard a pan of water when the beast attacked him.

Ready for the Big Bout

On eve of battle world champion tells training secrets

A MAGNIFICENT physical specimen, trained to the last degree of fitness—this is Gene Tunney today, ready and confident to defend his title as champion heavyweight of the world.

One great secret of Tunney's success is that he never—even between fights—lets himself get soft, lets his system become sluggish. He's always in first class trim.

You might think, with all the strenuous exercise he gets, he'd never need anything else to keep his system in perfect order. Yet Tunney takes Nujol regularly every day to keep himself in A1 condition.

This is what he says:

"I started taking Nujol internally seven years ago. The first month Nujol brought remarkable changes in my physical condition. Gas-pockets no longer formed in my stomach and intestines. My elimination became active and normal. My appetite increased and a desire for intensive training was created. Since that time I have taken Nujol about five nights a week. I have regulated myself to the amount necessary to keep my elimination normal. If I discover that I have taken an overdose I stop its use for a couple of days when I renew my daily practice of taking a swallow from the bottle before retiring.

"I have found during my seven years' experience with Nujol that it is not habit-forming, or in any way unpleasant or harmful."

Tunney is equally enthusiastic about Nujol as an external rub. He has his trainer use it on him regularly.

Gene Tunney

"I have found Nujol followed by alcohol the best and most practical kind of rub-down. I adopted the custom of using Nujol in this way some time ago because it prevents friction, is free from odor and in no way discolors the skin, leaving the body clean and free from all oily substances and unpleasant scents."

Nujol is not a medicine. It contains absolutely no medicine or drugs. It is simply a pure substance—perfected by the Nujol Laboratories of the Standard Oil Company (New Jersey)—that keeps your system functioning at all times as Nature intended it to. Regularly. Easily. Normally. It not only prevents an excess of body poisons from forming (we all have them) but aids in their removal.

Take a tip from Tunney's training. Buy a bottle of Nujol today. You'll find it at all the better drug stores.

AMELIA GIVES HER VIEWS

start demanding modern appointments in our ships, we'll get them. You remember that was the way with the auto. Woman usually gets what she goes after."

This Lady Lindy is a good-natured aviatrix. Beneath a head of closely cropped light golden hair she finds it hard to keep her clear, gray eyes from smiling perpetually. She hasn't the popular beauty of a Ruth Elder, but her fine, clear-cut features are quick to arouse admiration in the male and possibly envy in the female. Of false dignity she has none. Witness that two minutes after this reporter had curtsied to a meek introduction he and she talked of marriage—very, of course, impersonally.

BANS MARRIAGE TALK

"That, of course, isn't for publication," she ruled, after she had set forth in a light vein why she was still Miss Earhart. "I wish you wouldn't mention it, too, because it'll only start off all my troubles again"—This because for weeks hungry scribes insisted on knowing when she intended to march up the well-trod aisle.

Miss Earhart bored for facts on the airport situation in Pittsburgh. Told the people of Allegheny county had approved a bond issue for a municipal airport, she put punch in one word—"good." And if the commissioners of Allegheny want a word of advice from this handsome young woman it is this:

"Make your airport accessible. Have good roads leading to it. Place it close to the center of things."

LIKES SOCIAL WORK

Miss Earhart intends to return to her social service activities in Boston. She likes that work, although she doesn't intend to ignore the clouds.

"Do you have to work for a living?" the hard-working reporter was crude enough to ask.

"Well, I like it and I always have worked. I'd keep on working if I married the richest man in the world."

Miss Earhart tells of her trans-Atlantic flight without making you feel that its success depended in any way upon her slim shoulders.

"These boys," she waves toward Wilmer Stultz and Lou Gordon, "flew that ship, not I. And I can't feel at all distinguished about it."

GOOD APPETITE

After dancing for three hours with Toledo's handsomest young bloods, Miss Earhart boarded her private car there and enjoyed for six hours her "best sleep in four days." At Beaver Falls this morning she was called and soon was doing justice to a breakfast of orange juice, fried ham, wheat cakes, toast and coffee. She finished her morning meal in obvious good humor a minute or two before the train eased into the Pennsylvania Station.

"DON'T FLY TO REDUCE"

tume jewelry. She wore a short strand of seed pearls and a novelty gold bracelet, brightened with gay enameled disks. She appeared in a two-piece elge gown with a knitted blouse interwoven with a gold thread, and a pleated crepe skirt, bound with the material of the blouse. Jade green triangles decorated the skirt and alternating bands of green and beige silk finished the bottom of the blouse. Her hat was a smart hand-made felt, fashioned to suggest an aviator's cap.

STAGE STRUCK? NO!

Amelia has no stage aspirations now that she has won fame. She wants to return to her social service work and her airplane. For she owns one of her own, and what's more she can fly it herself, she modestly commented.

When asked if she thought women had as much opportunity as men in the new field of aviation, she was rather irritated. "Sex has nothing to do with it. It's all a matter of ability. There is no reason why as many men as women can't be active in aeronautics—if they want to be."

While waiting to board the train, she confessed that she would be glad to get back to "civilian" life, even though she did enjoy her trip through the country and meeting so many people. "There's just one thing wrong with all this—one doesn't have any private life."

Miss Earhart isn't serious minded altogether, though. She has a sense of humor, and she likes music. When the band struck up just a few minutes before her departure, she began to dance.

Still wearing her high-heeled, fragils looking lizard skin shoes and sheer silk stockings, incongruously peeping out from the wide flapping legs of the ungraceful, ill-fitting, one-piece suit of overalls she had donned, "Amiable Amelia" trotted gaily down the long platform to the huge engine she was to drive as far as Greensburg.

This was the first time she had been seen without her hat and her short, boyishly straight fair hair fluffed around her face like a nimbus.

WAVES GOODBYE

Still the graciously smiling, accommodating person she had been every minute of her short stay in Pittsburgh, she laughed, waved her hand, leaned out of the engine cab window to pose for photographers, autographed more cards, gave short bits of interviews to questions asked—crowded an hour's energy into the few minutes she had left.

Over the wall, 200 feet above the train, heads peered to get a last look at the famous aviatrix.

Then, with a last wave and a cheery smile, "Lady Lindy" was gone.

Mrs. Enoch Rauh, Director of the Department of Public Welfare, was the first woman member of any city cabinet to greet the first woman trans-Atlantic flyer.

RIDES ENGINE IN OVERALLS

Sloan simply read: "Allow Miss Earhart to ride engine to Greensburg or as far as she desires."

Engineman Sloan, one of the veterans of the road, made no special effort in the dress line in honor of his distinguished guest, and this was as Miss Earhart wished it. The old overalls, begrimed cap and gauntlets were on duty as usual, but Fireman Woller had bedecked his head in a nice, new white cap. Both were as happy as children at having the distinguished American girl as their guest in the cab.

"Where's your lip stick, John?" called some station wag to the engineer, but the veteran of the throttle merely laughed and said, "This girl doesn't need those things."

SCOUTS TO SAIL DOWN OHIO

This tooth paste will buy you a first-class auto clock

You needn't dig into your pocket to buy a clock for your car. Let Listerine Tooth Paste buy it for you. Here's how it works out: The average dentifrice costs you 50c. You use a tube a month. Twelve times fifty equals six dollars, the yearly cost. Listerine Tooth Paste costs 25c (the large tube). Twelve times twenty-five equals three dollars. All right. Six dollars minus three dollars equals three dollars, your annual saving. Spend it as you please.

Large tube 25¢

Millions have switched to this dentifrice

—whitens teeth at half the cost

THERE are many excellent dentifrices on the market selling at a trifle above or below 50c—but is it necessary to pay that much? Why not a first class dentifrice at 25c—scientifically correct for all types of teeth?

Believing this to be a sound price, we created Listerine Tooth Paste at 25c for a large tube. It is the result of more than fifty years' study of tooth and mouth troubles. Now it is sweeping the country. Everywhere it is supplanting older and costlier dentifrices that accomplish no more.

Due to the presence of an amazing new and gentle polishing agent, it keeps teeth gleaming white with almost no brushing. Included in it are certain ingredients we have found most ideal in keeping the mouth and gums fresh and healthy.

We ask you to try this paste not only for the marked saving (quite substantial in a large family) but for its delightful and speedy cleansing.

Get a tube at your druggist today. Try it for a month. See how it makes teeth gleam. Note how good your mouth feels after using it. Compare it with any paste you have ever used and judge by results alone. And then reflect that these results are costing you about half of what you would ordinarily pay.

The showers yesterday and last night were limited to the Atlantic Coast states, the Gulf states and the Rocky Mounain states and rain is falling this morning in Western Kansas and in Texas. The rains were light to moderately heavy. The skies are clear this morning from the Central Plains eastward to the Atlantic coast, and over the Dakotas and westward over Montana.

High pressure covers by far the greater portion of the country this morning, the pressure having increased since yesterday, but with little change in temperature.

River Conditions.

The Allegheny River is still rising slowly, but the Monongahela is falling. Stage at Pittsburgh is 13.3, falling; Dam. No. 2, 8.1; Dam No. 6, 11.6 feet. The Ohio will remain nearly stationary. Dams Nos. 3 and 4 are up; all the other dams in the district are down.

What! Only $77 for a first-class electric receiver?

ABSOLUTELY! Think a minute. Suppose only a few persons went to see a movie. The theatre's expenses being what they are, each spectator would have to pay a lot, wouldn't he? But thousands go—and so each one pays little. Some radio sets are high priced because the demand is limited. The cost has to be distributed among a few purchasers.

But the demand for Atwater Kent Radio—tremendous! 1,650,000 sets already in operation. Sales leaping all the time, as people find out that the Atwater Kent 1929 electric set gives them everything they wanted. And—because the Atwater Kent factory has the facilities for producing fine radio quickly as well as carefully—the price is still lower for 1929.

Not surprising when you stop to think. Why not stop to listen, too!

RICH COMEDY ENJOYED IN NIXON

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

"Nothing But the Truth," without doubt, is one of the funniest of the presentations of the Nixon Players. Harry Bannister was amusing in "The Nervous Wreck," but he is twice as funny and three times as nervous this week.

Mr. Bannister, in the part of Robert Bennett, a young man faced with the problem of doubling $10,000 in five days to aid a charity of his fiance's, makes a novel wager. A discussion of the ethics of the truth in business leads him to bet his partner that he can tell only the truth for a period of 24 hours.

With the girl's money at stake he plunges from one impossible situation to another. Not even white little social lies are allowed him. The whole and dreadful truth about a friend's hat and a neighbor's singing were all exposed.

The young man had a very hard time emulating George Washington, but we find it easy to predict that you will laugh at "Nothing But the Truth."

Louise Quinn was charming as Gwendolyn Ralston, who disclosed a very embarrassing curiosity about the investment in which her $10,000 had been placed. Howard Freeman, as usual, was the cigar-smoking business man. He had a share in the bet and resorted to shady practices to win.

Those who remember "The Gold Diggers," will be glad to see Helena Gregg back again as Mable Jackson. She was even more adept at the art than last time.

The part of the fussy Bishop Doran was played by Joseph Thayer. The role was an exaggerated one, but at times quite as laughable as the rest.

STANLEY FILM GRIPPING

"The Wheel of Chance," Fannie Hurst's gripping story of Jewish life, has been done into an equally graphic screen drama which is offered as the pricipal feature in the Stanley this week. Richard Barthelmess, in a dual role, is the star. Miss Hurst knows Jewish character and her studies abroad have qualified her to depict the life of the Russian immigrant with all the tragic background of his native land, where persecution drove millions of those oppressed people to seek an asylum in America. The story is well known and, in the hands of Barthelmess and an excellent company, is depicted with faithfulness to the original theme of the novelist. The picture is followed by a good stage bill, the presentation being headed by Marie MacQuarrie and her harp ensemble. Lois Wilson and Conlin and Glass have good specialties. A sparkling vitaphone comedy is a clever novelty on the program, which was enjoyed by large audiences yesterday.

TED WEEMS' ORCHESTRA PLAYING AT SANDERS

Ted Weems and his recording orchestra opened a week's engagement in Sander's, on the Freeport highway, Aspinwall, last night, his first engagement here this season. Sanders management has received a large number of reservations. It is making arrangements to book John Garber and his orchestra for some time during August.

THRILL DRAMA IN PENN

No matter what you say to the contrary, a perfect cooling plant and a bright comedy on a clear screen is a combination that is unrivaled in the way of midsummer amusement. In the Penn this week the temperature is delightful and there is a Charles Chase comedy, an enjoyable combination. "Diamond handcuffs," billed as a thrilling drama of "the super gold-dinger," has the fascination of depicting life in that stratum with which the vast majority of people are unfamiliar, but which allures them nevertheless. This screen attraction yesterday allured record-breaking summer audiences to the Penn. Eleanor Boardman, Conrad Nagel and Lawrence Gray are featured in the film, and they have good support. Some Chinese dragons painted on the drop scenes, oriental tomtoms and Far East costumes bewitched the audiences into the belief that they were witnessing a Flowery Kingdom fantasy on the stage. Perhaps it was the adroitness of Teddy Joyce that made the thing so realistic, but it is a clever novelty just the same. This presentation is labeled "Chinese Nights" and several specialties are given. Dick Liebert, at the organ, has an original piece showing up the topical song fakers.

ESTHER RALSTON FILM IN GRAND IS PLEASING

"Half a Bride," starring Esther Ralston and featuring Gary Cooper, gave a Grand audience pleasing screen entertainment yesterday. Telling the story of a girl whose jazz age ideas of life are brought to the old-fashioned standard of morals through being stranded with a man on an uninhabited island. Both Miss Ralston and Mr. Cooper played well. A musical stage attraction, "Hits and Bits," overture, "Victor Herbert Favorites," comedy and other short films also were on the program.

SAXOPHONE ACT HARRIS HIT

The Six Brown Brothers, saxophone group, headed by Tom Brown, as the featured comedy soloist, proved to be a well-liked headline act of the bill of vaudeville and motion pictures in the Harris yesterday. Tom's talking sax' caused a lot of laughs when it moaned the laments of a bride "waiting at the church." The Scotch songs and jokes of Neil Kirk, most of them of the sturdy, time-tried variety, caught on well with the audience. Jack and Ruth Hayes, as a wandering thespian and a pert small-town girl, delivered smart chatter of a jesting nature and closed their act with an eccentric dance by Jack. Gaffney and Walton, a small man and a buxom, good-looking woman, had a singing and dancing act, much of the comedy which lay in the difference in their size. They developed more than their share of the laughs in "Meat—the Wife." Snell and Vernon performed on the flying rings. The photoplay feature was "Their Hour," with Dorothy Sebastian, John Herron, Huntley Gordon and June Marlowe in the cast, a comedy of youth and romance. Other vaudeville and short films, including news and comedy, had places on the bill.

"In Love With Love" Gives Pitt Audience an Evening Of Hilarious Amusement

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS.

VINCENT LAWRENCE'S comedy of love—assuredly about love, since its title is "In Love With Love"—revealed the George Sharp players last night in the Pitt in one of the most satisfactory plays in which it has appeared this season. The audience enjoyed to the most its humorous situations, almost farcical, involving a girl and three young men, two of whom knew they were in love with her, the third being unaware that he bore her any affection until the others had eliminated themselves by pursuing the usual course of deadly rivals.

The cast introduced two new players in the persons of Bradley Page and Olive Meehan, the latter giving a charming characterization of Ann Jordon, who did not know whom she really loved the more between Bob Metcalf and Frank Oakes, finally deciding that she loved neither but had merely been in love with love as far as she and these two were concerned. Mr. Page made friends for the frank and likeable chap he made of Jack Gardner, fourth member of the quadrangle. John W. Moore and Robert Fisk played Metcalf and Oakes, respectively, making them, the one a pleasant boob, and the other a pugnacious and rather overbearing individual. Minor roles were played effectively by Gus Forbes, Mabel Korman and May Buckley.

The fun reached its height in the finale of the second act, when Metcalf and Oakes, having drank several toasts to their beloved and other subjects, decided they didn't like each other's faces and set about to change the job nature had done. The battle took place offstage as the curtain decended but the result was plainly visible when the curtain rose on the third act, revealing that each had knocked the other out.

The three acts of the play had their action in one set, representing the living room in the Jordon home, very well executed.

VERSATILE SISTERS HEAD SHERIDAN BILL

A vaudeville and photoplay program in the Sheridan Square yesterday had the Fou Hamel Sisters as the featured stage act, playing various instruments and singing and dancing in their skit, "Showing Off Before Company." Music and farce was the offering of Dan Coleman & Co., in "The New Stenog." Ewing Eaton appeared in a comedy and song act. Songs, dances and comedy were presented by Eva La-Dale and Marguerite. Gymnastics called for skill on the part of the Weigands. Taylor Tompkins & Co. developed their act on the lines of song and comedy. Dorothy Sebastian, John Harron, Huntley Gordon and June Marlowe, in the screen feature, "Their Hour," other films and music, completed the bill.

Confetti Showers Bennett And Byrd on Arrival In New York City

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Commander Byrd first trained for a seafaring profession, but later became interested in aviation. He has described the dangers of pioneer flying and the crash of the America. During the war he established an air unit at Halifax, N. S. He advocated the creation of a Bureau of Aeronautics in the Navy Department. Due to missing a train he failed to make the fatal test flight on the ZR-2. He described the adventurous flights of the first aviators to cross the Atlantic Ocean and of his flight to the North Pole.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Byrd Returns From North Pole

CHAPTER XXII.

BEFORE the Chantier had steamed many miles toward home, I began to realize that we had stirred up something by flying to the Pole. First there were radios of congratulation and good wishes. Then radios of inquiry. And, finally, radios that literally ordered me to do things I had never even dreamed of doing, couldn't do even if I wanted—such as make a speech at three different banquets to be held in three different cities on one and the same night. I felt rather stunned about it; but, of course, greatly appreciative.

Now I discovered that success of our flight from Spitzberger touched some responsive public chord which loosed a torrent of attention upon me and my expedition. I was much pleased, of course, but also astonished, and secretly worried. My fear was that personal notoriety might overlay the good I had hoped to do for aviation. What I ultimately found out about "being a hero" gave me almost as much of a "kick" as did the sensation of circling the pole.

We arrived at New York on the morning of June 22, 1926. We were met by the mayor's official tug, the Macon, on board of which were several official welcoming committees, a delegation of senators and representatives from Congress, a regiment of newspaper reporters, and enough photographers to man a battleship.

For half an hour I was tossed about like a leaf in a storm. Then a friend cornered me. I could see he was laboring under high tension. He spoke feverishly:

Byrd Welcomed by Throng

"We arrive at the Battery at noon. You will be presented with a medal and the keys to the city at twelve-fifteen. You will make two speeches in reply. At lunch you will make another speech. At four-thirty-two we leave for Washington. On arrival you will be met by a committee of welcome. Twenty minutes later President Coolidge will present you with a gold medal. You will make a speech—"

"But I'm not a speechmaker," I protested.

My friend seemed to grind his teeth. "Makes not the slightest difference," he snapped. "You are now a national hero. You—"

I felt myself whirled bodily about. "Look up, Commander. Stick an eye on that airplane up there," yelled someone.

Involuntarily I glanced skyward. Twenty cameras clicked.

A heavy man jostled against me. "I want you to meet the president of the—" He didn't finish. I found myself grasping the hand of an important-looking individual.

"You are a national hero," he declared. "I am pleased—"

"Be sure you speak of leaving this port in the mayor's speech," broke a hoarse whisper in one ear. My feverish friend again.

Before I could answer, the broad-shouldered chairman of the reception committee elbowed his way in. "Excuse me, Commander, but these fellows want a picture of you and your mother." Ten more cameras infiltrated through the crowd. I began to feel like a promising halfback who has to carry the ball at every down. Things began to be going more rapidly. Between the erupting fireboats, the airplanes and the yacht escorts I felt a stiff neck coming on. The whistles were deafening.

Scene Resembles Riot

All of this was entirely unexpected. I felt bewildered. But most grateful that the nation should do all this for us. Of course, I didn't take it all to myself. Far from it. There was Bennett by my side, who deserved equally with me and perhaps more. Then there were our half hundred shipmates who had unselfishly put every ounce of their strength and energy into the job. Then my thought dwelt on the dozen or so other men who had formed necessary links in our success.

The scene at the Battery resembled a riot. A parade was formed. As we passed up Broadway the air grew thick with a blizzard of paper streamers and confetti. The sidewalks were packed with people. Traffic stopped.

The City Hall was surrounded by a dense mass of humanity. A cordon of mounted police kept open just enough space to let our party pass. We wound up into the ceremonial chambers. The auditorium was jammed to its doors. The oratory began...

And so on all that day, ending with President Coolidge's presentation in Washington that night. And all the next day. And the next, and the next. The high point came in Richmond, Va., my native state. Thousands turned out the night we arrived. There were glarelights, speeches and brass bands; a swirling friendly multitude.

A National Hero

What did it mean? I asked myself the question; but could find no answer. I asked my friends. But all they would reply was the same refrain in one form or another, "Don't you know you are a national hero now?"

Of course I realized that an adventure like our polar flight aroused great public interest. I knew before I left that there would be a certain amount of risk in crossing the polar ice, just as there is in any flight over an unknown terrain. I had a notion that such a stunt is great stuff for the publicity people.

But my idea of a national hero was somebody like George Washington or John J. Pershing. They had held the safety of our country in their hands. They had suffered the agony of long campaigns. They had led armies to victory against a public enemy.

We hadn't done anything so valiant.

"But what is a national hero, and why?" I asked a newspaper friend of mine.

"Oh, someone who's worth two columns and a front-page streamer, fireboats and a backet of medals," came the cynical reply.

But I wasn't satisfied; not when I thought of the thousands of American citizens who had grasped my hand since my return; and of the tens of thousands of jubilant letters and telegrams that had reached me.

No, there was something more, something deeper.

The first inkling of the great discovery came in Washington just before I faced the President and a large audience of distinguished diplomats. I had never spoken before so august an assemblage. To rehearse some of the thoughts that crowded my mind, I managed to sneak away for a few moments in the stage wings of the giant auditorium where the ceremony was being held. I stood in a little bare alcove glancing over my notes. Suddenly a door behind me opened, then softly closed. I turned. Facing me stood a little white-haired lady in black bonnet and gown. They looked into mine unblinking.

"You are Commander Byrd?" she asked.

"Yes, madam."

She came a step forward in a sudden wistful eagerness. "And you reached the North Pole?"

"There seems to be no doubt of it."

Her lips parted as if to speak again. But before she could utter a word an abrupt change came over her. She gave a quick sigh. Her mouth trembled. She thrust out one hand as if to touch me. Her eyes dimmed and filled. Then she cried out:

"Oh, I'm so glad!" Before I could stop her she was gone.

Official Welcoming

I heard a step behind me. "All right, Byrd." The same irritating whiplash of necessity that notoriety brings. "The President is arriving. You will have to go on the stage at once."

I went on the stage. I espied her in the audience. I managed to inquire about her during a lull in the ponderous proceedings of the evening.

"Poor thing," whispered my informant. "She's had a tough break in life. Lost her husband 20 years ago. Brought up two fine boys on what she could make herself. Lost both of them in the World war. Now she's all alone."

In a flash of understanding I knew something of the answer to my question: What is a national hero?

I was a hero to that sad little mother, but not in a way the word is usually used. No doubt she admired us for having succeeded. Probably the story of it all gave her daily newspaper a fresh flavor. Possibly she speculated over what it felt like to fly. But those weren't the things that made her seek me out and face me first-hand with her gladness.

What that mother saw in me was the living memory of her husband and sons. They had been splendid men. I later learned that they had been adventurous and so were the kind who would have liked to have flown to the North Pole. They were fine, keen, courageous men. And if they were all that to the passing acquaintance who retailed their virtues to me, what demigods must they have been to that little white-haired lady.

To her I was the living flesh she so longed to touch. I, she knew, was son and husband. Now she would sit out there among a great

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIAL HAPPENINGS

Oversight by City's Founders Brings Hardship to Pittsburghers During Summer Months

IT IS too bad, isn't it, that the good people who founded our city didn't have the foresight to choose a site near some nice cool ocean or lake? Of course, a majority of the folks who live in cities with such advantages find that they must go elsewhere during the summer months, too—but the stay-at-homes are not so completely dependent on golf and tennis for their outdoor exercise as we are here. Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit and other lake cities all have big yacht clubs around which much of the social life centers during the summer, and of course seaboard towns have similar clubs—and the added fun of salt-water bathing.

I think I have mentioned before how attractive the salt water seems to be for Pittsburgh people this year—even luring away some of those who have gone to Canada for many seasons. Among those in the East are the George Greer Coolidges, of Aylesboro avenue, who are visiting Mrs. Joseph Dilworth at her summer cottage at Narragansett Pier, Rhode Island. The Coolidges' daughter, Betty, is spending the summer at Camp Mystic, at Mystic, Conn., which, you know, is directed by Mrs. Mary L. Jobe Akeley, widow of the African explorer, Carl Akeley. Mrs. Coolidge spent a day with Betty recently and she and her husband will go back to the camp in August to be present at the camp festivities.

ALSO at the shore are the James Lyall Stuarts, of Cochrane avenue, Sewickley, and their daughter, Emily. And, by the way, Emily's name has been added to the list of next year's prospective debutantes, I understand. The Stuarts are spending the whole summer at Bass Rocks, Mass. Another of next season's buds-elect, Elizabeth McCullough, daughter of the William T. McCulloughs, of Bennington avenue, is, just now, a member of a house party being entertained by Anne Brooks Kern at her home in Winchester, Va. The guests are all girls from Miss Wright's School at Bryn Mawr. From Winchester, Elizabeth is planning to go on to Ventnor, N. J., to visit her aunt, Mrs. O. C. Daub, at her summer home, and she will get home about the middle of August. The debut tea is being arranged for early November, I hear.

PERHAPS I didn't tell you before, but no formal invitations have been sent out for Mrs. Frederick G. Hawdon's "at homes" being held this afternoon from 2 to 4 o'clock and tonight from 8 to 10 o'clock at the home of her hostess, Miss M. Marsh Rees in South Negley avenue. All the old friends who remember Mrs. Hawdon as Etta C. Keil, the well-known soprano, are invited to go and meet her again today.

Mrs. Hawdon and her sister, Mrs. Helen Keil White, of Chicago, will spend the entire week with Miss Rees and then they will go East to visit their brother, Augustus L. Keil, at his summer home, Spray Beach, near Beach Haven, N. J.

I HEAR that Mrs. C. A. Verner, who lives at the Schenley apartments, is up in Syracuse, N. Y., visiting her son-in-law and daughter, the Coleman Lindzey Nicholsons, for a while. And Dr. and Mrs. Robert S. Marshall, who also live at the Schenley, have gone to Beaumaris, Canada, for a vacation. Mrs. Marshall L. Jenkins, also of the Schenley, is at Watkins Glen, N. Y., and Mrs. Ruth B. McMechin, who lives at the same place, is spending a short time at Bedford Springs.

ONE of the few social affairs being given just now was the dinner dance which Mrs. Harry S. Davison, of Beechwood boulevard, held on Saturday night at the Pittsburgh Country Club. There were 24 guests asked to say goodby to Mr. and Mrs. William Myer, of Shady avenue, who are sailing Saturday on the Franconia to spend about two months abroad.

MR. AND MRS. CARL SPAHR, of Dickson avenue, Ben Avon, have issued invitations for the wedding of their daughter, Miss Virginia May Spahr, and Arnold Hooper, of Ben Avon, son of Mrs. Cora Arnold Hooper and the late Charles Volney Hooper, of Albany, N. Y. The ceremony will be performed Thursday night at 8 o'clock in the Spahr home. Miss Spahr attended the Birmingham School for Girls and the Margaret Morrison Carnegie College and Mr. Hooper is a graduate of Union College. He is a member of the Chi Psi fraternity.

THE marriage of Miss Leota May Weeter, of Gross street, East End, daughter of the late L. D. Weeter, of New Bethlehem, Pa., and Winfield C. Boyd, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Boyd, of New Salem, Pa., was solemnized yesterday morning at 9:30 o'clock in the East Liberty Presbyterian Church by the Rev. Dr. W. Frank Reber. The bride wore beige georgette with hat to match, and carried a shower of pink roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Florence Barnett, of Newcomerstown, O., as maid of honor, appeared in green chiffon with hat to correspond and her flowers were yellow roses. William Knox, of the East End, was best man, and the wedding music was played by Miss Clara S. Patterson, of Homewood. A breakfast at the Garden tearoom followed the ceremony, given by Mr. and Mrs. Albert W. Kepler, of Jancey street, cousins of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Boyd are taking a northern trip and after August 15 will be at home in South Atlantic avenue.

ANNOUNCEMENT is made of the marriage of Miss Rita Ward, of Richwood, W. Va., and Frederic A. Leonard, of Wilkinsburg, which was solemnized Saturday at the home of Mrs. C. L. Reisch, in Franklin avenue, Wilkinsburg, by the Rev. Dr. Harry Nelson Bassler, pastor of Trinity Reformed Church, Wilkinsburg. Only the immediate families were present. Mr. and Mrs. Leonard are taking an extensive eastern trip, and after August 1 will be at home in Wallace avenue, Wilkinsburg.

MRS. H. J. NEWMAN, of Wilkinsburg, is leaving this week for Chautauqua, N. Y., where she will be the guest of Mrs. C. V. Van Winkle, of the Ruskin apartments, who has a cottage at the assembly grounds.

LIFE MEMBERSHIPS, SLOAN CLUB'S GOAL

THE Sarah Sloan Scholarship Club has inaugurated a life membership to which each member of the board has pledged herself to belong. Not only does each one expect to become a life member before the end of the year, but it is understood she is to earn the price of her membership. Miss Ruth Campbell, who gave a card party at her home a short time ago, earned her membership in that way, and was the first to become a life member. Since then Mrs. David I. McCahill, Mrs. Walter R. Fleming and Mrs. W. B. Carson have become "lifers." Miss Campbell, by the way, is to be chairman of the new junior auxiliary, which is even now in the process of organization.

Mrs. Carl Bushnell, of Rosslyn Farms, will entertain the board at luncheon in her home tomorrow afternoon. The club has pledged three scholarships for next year, two of them having already been awarded to girls who are working their way through Pitt. Mrs. John S. Sloan, life president of the club, Mr. Sloan and Mr. and Mrs. Fleming returned yesterday from a week-end motor trip to Clarion. Mrs. Carson is expected home the latter part of this week from a fortnight's visit in Boston. Mrs. S. J. Corbett, another board member, spent the week-end with her daughter in Cambridge Springs before going on to Warren for a visit. Mr. and Mrs. McCahill expect to take an extended motor trip, leaving town about the twentieth.

MRS. R. D. BEARDSLEY, of Briar Cliff road, is entertaining with five table of bridge Thursday afternoon as a benefit for the Consumers' League. Mrs. Beardsley, who also is a member of the Keystone Chapter, Daughters of American Pioneers, and of the Keystone Association for Historical Research, returned last night from a short motor trip to the northern part of the state.

THE Perrysville Women's Christian Temperance Union is having its annual porch party today at the home of Mrs. N. W. White, Maple avenue. The program subject for the afternoon is "Citizenship."

PURITY CAPTER, No. 411, O. E. S., will hold a luncheon at the Food Craft Shop on Thursday. After the luncheon, Maude Ingersoll will present one of her "musical picture" programs, which will be followed by cards. Mrs. Sarah Cooper is worthy matron and Mrs. Mary Brendlinger chairman.

COURT ALLEGHENY, No. 664, C. D. of A., will conduct a week-end excursion to New York City, September 22-24. Reservations are to be secured through Miss Caroline Clancy, Morrison avenue, or Miss Elizabeth O'Neil, Sterritt Building.

MRS. J. CHARLES WILSON, the Tourists' new president, has taken a cottage at North East for the summer and is established there.

P. & L. E. TRAIN KILLS UNIDENTIFIED VICTIM

An unidentified man, about 35, died last night at South Side Hospital of a fractured skull suffered when he was struck by a Pittsburgh and Lake Erie freight train, in McKees Rocks. Boston pawn check found in his clothing bore the name of Joe Rusches and a Bridgeport (Conn.) address, morgue attaches said.

KITTANNING-FORD CITY ROAD BLOCKED BY SLIDES

EUGENE GRACE SEES NO VOTE YEAR SLUMP

LEBANON, Pa., July 24.—(AP.)—Eugene Grace, president of the Bethlehem Steel Company, in conference with employes' representatives here yesterday, presented an optimistic outlook for the rest of the year. Mr. Grace said the first half had brought better busines than the same period last year and there was every reason to believe there would be no "presidential year" slump. He declared he had heard nothing of a movement for a general eight-hour day.

BOTH LEGS BROKEN WHEN HIT BY AUTO

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

SHANGHAIED

By BERTHA R. M'DONALD

WHEN Audrey Maxwell saw the manager wandering through the department, she knew instinctively that he was in search of her.

"Please, Mr. Babcock," she began plaintively, "when he discovered her where she was going through some files, "don't tell me you've hunted me down to begin that vacation chant of yours again."

"There'll be no argument this time, Miss Maxwell," he told her sternly. "Please remember that as your superior I have pregogatives, and—"

"But I can't go away now," she objected tearfully. "My new shipment is due—"

"I meant what I said about no argument," he said, interrupting in turn. "For a girl who is smart enough to work her way up from the very bottom to the very head of a department, you have absolutely no judgment when it comes to yourself. Forgive me if I'm blunt and plain, but I must make you see how vitally important it is to—to the firm for you to take a vacation now. You're looking very badly. You haven'd had a vacation in four years."

"I know, but—"

"I've arranged everything — a subordinate to take your place while you're away. I'm supplying the vacation time, yes, and the place and you've got to supply the girl."

"But," she sniffed, an undercurrent of something akin to pique, sweeping her, "this is too much like being shanghied, Mr. Babcock. You're my superior, and all, but does that include the regulation of my private life?"

"This time, yes," Babcock went on relentlessly, without the flicker of an eyelash or even a change of expression. "Here is a ticket for Idlewild, Wis. You will have quarters with Farmer Bentley. He will meet you at the station. You are to stay away for six weeks. Your train leaves Union Station at 1 o'clock sharp. Be gone at once, now!"

Audrey knew very well that Richard Babcock was being kind to her; otherwise she would have rebelled because she did not want a vacation now. She hated summer resorts and summer dullness in the country. Her world seemed to be rocking beneath her feet. She was quite certain that she was about to spend two very miserable months, but as she neared the railroad station she began to feel more cheerful.

As the train reached Idlewild and she found herself standing alone on the platform with the locomotive steaming away in the distance, something of the care and responsibility she had been shouldering for the past few years seemed to slip from her.

For a moment, however, the silence was a deadly, stalking thing which frightened her. Then the whir of a motor distracted her self-centered thoughts. A man called lustily to her. "Guess you would be Miss Maxwell from the city. Hop right into the old bus here and we'll wing it for home."

Her escort was a kindly rural type of fellow; a man slightly past middle age, robust and active. All the way out to his farm Bentley talked to Audry about crops and poultry and silos and cattle. The soft twang of his uninterrupted flow of speech merely served to increase the delightful languor which had taken possession of her.

The following week was a revelations to this city girl who had not realized how tired she was until she found herself relaxing involuntarily in Farmer Bentley's comfortable home. Here people lived, it seemed; actually lived. There was no hurry and there was time to read; time for long walks in the wooded hills.

After a fortnight Audrey hiked to the top of a lovely hill. In gay abandon she lifted her head to the cool, scented breeze. Suddenly she realized that something was lacking in this so-near-perfect kingdom; she missed something dreadfully. She dared not admit that she was pining for the office; the busy buzz of the clerks, the soft low voice of the manager issuing orders or commending her as he never failed to do when he thought she deserved it.

Babcock had written one or two letters to her—short perfunctory notes. She owed him an answer to these so she decided to go back to her room and write to him.

"It is heavenly here," she began, "but I do miss the office and my work. Sometimes I think if I could see some one from there for an hour or two I would be more contended to stay here. As it is, two months is a long time to be shut away from what has become one's very existence."

By Saturday morning she was seething with restlessness. She could not account for the horrible sense of loneliness that had come over her. After her noonday meal she climbed her favorite hill and sat down under a tree. Almost without volition her mind recounted the lovely things Richard Babcock had done for her in the past; the way he always seemed so ready to protect her. The kindness of the spirit which had prompted him to force a vacation upon her when he thought she needed it.

And then, like a blinding lash of light, it came to her that it was Richard Babcock she had been missing—Richard Babcock! Her heart began pounding furiously. What audacity was hers indeed! She, merely a department head, allowing herself to think seriously, even for a moment, of a big business manager! Suddenly she began to weep softly, thinking to herself, "What a wretched fool I am to hitch my poor little wagon to a star!"

A twig snapped. The girl started and looked up, and as if in answer to her thoughts and wishes, Richard Babcock stood before her.

"What's this? Crying? That isn't a part of your vacation as I planned it."

"Oh, I—I—I didn't want any vacation in the first place!" she sobbed. "I—I'm lonesome, Mr. Babcock! Please let me go back to the office."

Her sobs became more violent and then, as though it were the very thing he had intended, Babcock reached out, folded the shaking girl in his arms and laid her head gently against his shoulders.

"Would it make you any less lonesome if—if I stayed here with you for a while, Audrey?" he asked hesitatingly.

"Yes—oh yes!" she answered, unable to keep the eagerness from her tone. "It would, Mr. Babcock, I'm sure it would."

"Then I'll stay—as long as you want me. Could I dare hope that might be for—forever?"

The answer must have been an affirmative one for Richard Babcock's wire to his firm that afternoon, told them that his week end might lengthen into a fortnight, and that they had better ask the girl who was substituting for Miss Maxwell to remain permanently as Miss Maxwell would not be coming back at all.

FILM SHOWING NEWS WORK SHARES BILL WITH PREVOST

Patrons of the Strand Theater have an unusual treat on the bill today, what with Marie Prevost in "A Blonde for a Night" and a two-reel motion picture, "Making a Newspaper," showing the life of a reporter "at work" and following his "copy" through to the printed sheet.

The scene of the feature picture is night life in Paris with many amusing incidents in the life of American travelers. The newsreel was filmed particularly to show newspaper readers how news is handled from the time it "breaks" until it is read.

"Making a Newspaper" will move to the Belmar Theater tomorrow and Thursday and to the Plaza on Friday. Next week it will be shown Monday and Tuesday at the Arsenal, Thursday Friday and Saturday at the Rowland.

SKYWARD

By Commander Richard E. Byrd

throng and listen while the President of the United States extolled Bennett and me, even as she might have sat and listened had Fate been equally generous to her.

It may sound incredible, but in that moment I got the philosophy of the thing. I had been human in my home-coming. The grand public welcome had moved me, though I had felt humble and more or less undeserving of such recognition. I had had to pinch myself every now and then to see if it were all true. I had felt like a man who had unexpectedly reached a mountain top and finds a gorgeous panorama spread before his eyes. I had wanted to throw my hat in the air and shout, "Gosh, but this is great!"

Now, in a thrice, another man's mother had wiped away my smug acceptance of unexpected fame.

My Mother laughed

"NERVES—pooh, pooh!" That was the way Mother answered my famous old excuse. And she did more than that—she gave me a real remedy for that feeling of distraught, weary irritability!

I'd tried the whole range of ordinary laxatives; health foods that took weeks to act, cathartics that wracked the system. And I'd come to distrust them terribly . . .

Feen-a-mint is different!

It's just like a bit of delicious chewing gum. You don't swallow it—you chew it!

Its magic laxative principle is released slowly, the way science meant it to be released. It actually becomes part of the digestive fluids—does not disturb digestion. It works with the body—not against it!

It won't torture you with griping pains. It won't poison or weaken the system. It won't enslave you to laxative pills. Get Feen-a-mint at your druggist's. Correct constipation—now!

BRIDE, EX-SWEETHEART BATTLE WITH KNIVES

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 24.—(AP.)—Mrs. Varna Brown, 32, and Hugh Davis, 38, are in a hospital today seriously wounded in a stabbing duel which took place while the couple were dining together yesterday at the apartment of the woman in Buffalo's exclusive West Side section.

Each was badly cut and lost much blood. Surgeons said, however, that both probably would recover.

Davis said Mrs. Brown invited him to her apartment, then assaulted him with a bread knife after tea had been poured. They grabbed knives and dishes in self-defense and the battle was on.

Davis was cut about the arms and chest and several fingers were nearly severed. The woman's face was torn and battered, and her mouth was so badly cut that she was unable to tell police her version of the acair.

Neighbors heard the melee and screams and notified police.

Detectives W. E. Jordan reported his investigation had disclosed the pair formerly were sweethearts. Mrs. Brown was married four months ago. Davis refused to disclose the cause of the trouble.

HASSELL TO HOP OFF FOR SWEDEN AT 5 A. M.

ROCKFORD, Ill., July 24.—(AP.)—Five o'clock tomorrow morning has been definitely set as the hour for Bert Hassell's take-off on his proposed one-stop flight to Stockholm, Sweden, by way of Greenland, the flier announced today.

Weather conditions on his proposed route appear satisfactory, Hassell said, and only the unforeseen can cause any further delay.

Another point in the flight's favor, Hassell pointed out today, was the availability of an additional landing field and supply base in Iceland, news of which was sent him in a cablegram from Alexander Johannessa of Kaldadarnes, Iceland, informing him that gasoline and oil would be available there if Hassell found it necessary to land.

Hassell received radio messages from his Greenland base at Mt. Evans yesterday, informing him his landing field there was ready, his fuel on hand and everything in shape for his arrival, the only scheduled stop on his trans-Atlantic flight.

Parker Cramer, co-pilot and navigator, has joined Hassell here.

SEEK PLOTTERS HIGH UP IN OBREGON'S DEATH

MEXICO CITY, July 24.—(AP.)—Jose De Leon Toral, who shot to death Gen. Alvaro Obregon, was himself an irresponsible victim of superior intellects, in the viewpoint of the Agrarian political body. For that reason, said Aurelio Manrique, spokesman for the party, his death is not demanded by that element.

"We regard Obregon's assassin as a personage who was controlled by superior outside forces," said Manrique today. "We do not demand his death, but we do demand justice, and we believe this can be achieved most quickly by removal from the government of those labor leaders whose anti-Obregon activities crated the atmosphere for the mad act of the assassin. The influence wielded by those labor leaders must be wiped out of Mexican public affairs."

SWIMMER DELIRIOUS

NEW YORK, July 24.—(AP.)—After breaking her own world's record for continuous swimming by remaining in the water 54 hours and 28 minutes, Mrs. Myrtle Huddleston, of Matoon, Ill., was in a hospital today. She was said to be in a delirious condition, moving her arms backward and forward in the motions of swimming.

Mrs. Huddleston learned to swim only two years ago and is the only woman ever to swim the Catalina Channel. She bettered by four hours the record she established in Chicago on May 21. Her endurance marks have never been approached by any man.

She was persuaded to leave the water at 5:37 yesterday afternoon by Morris Inkelas, manager of the outdoor pool where the swim was conducted. He believed the strain of the long grind was beginning to do her harm.

When she reached shallow water, however, she displayed no signs of fatigue. She waved to friends, shouted directions to her managers and posed for photographers. She said she believed she could have continued for 20 hours more.

Her face and limbs, however, were badly swollen by the long contact with the salt water, and she was carried from the pool and taken in an ambulance to St. Francis Hospital. Although it was said she was too ill to be weighed, it was estimated that her normal weight of 240 pounds had fallen to 215 pounds.

Mrs. Huddleston is 30, a widow and the mother of a boy 12.

ALL TIME GOING TO SMITH DRIVE

NEW YORK, July 24.—The resignation of John J. Raskob as chairman of the finance committee of General Motors Corporation was accepted today. Raskob resigned so as to be free to take complete charge of the campaign of Gov. Alfred E. Smith for the presidency. Raskob recently was elected chairman of the Democratic National Committee.

The acceptance of Raskob's resignation was announced by Alfred P. Sloan, president of General Motors. In a statement Sloan said Raskob's resignation "has been under consideration and, it being to the interest of both the corporation and Mr. Raskob to accept the same, it has been done with the greatest regret on the part of the entire organization."

The news that Raskob had tendered his resignation had had its effect in Wall Street shortly before Sloan's statement was issued. General Motors stock lost almost three points and was a factor in a wave of selling that also sent some of the other issues to a lower basis. The unusual situation of Raskob holding the two jobs, the political and financial, had aroused considerable discussion in the financial district in the past week.

SIDEWALKS OF PITTSBURGH

by HAVEY J. BOYLE

IN THE wealthier districts of the city, Squirrel Hill, East End and Schenley Farms, the regular police force of the districts are supplemented by private watchmen. These watchmen have nearly the loneliest jobs in town. Through the shadows they pace slowly, looking for the burglars and the holdup men who skulk where the big money is.

One man with the night watchman job has been working steadily for 25 years and the people whose homes he protects cannot remember when he had a night off. There are no holidays for them and the only change from a 365-night job comes in Leap Year when they turn in 366 turns.

Private watchmen around the homes of the wealthy are not the only plain-clothesmen who work outside the jurisdiction of the city police. In the financial district the uniformed bank patrolmen have helpers in the gentlemen you see standing around the doorways of the money institutions. If you observe closely you will notice a bulging hip—and not bulged in the shape of a bottle. A slumbering trigger on a potent pistol is in the bulging hip pocket ready to be pulled in an instant of danger.

A NUMBER of these private policemen, so to say, are graduates of the city force. Now and then you find some of them who never before had police experience. A number of the town's retired policemen (retired from the city force) add to their income by the pension route by acting as policemen and messengers in banks.

Among the most amiable men who meet the public are the bank tellers. At the other end of the pole are theater ticket sellers. We have heard prominent theatrical men say that it is almost impossible to get ticket sellers who rather than seeming to appear sore because someone wants to spend money on a theater ticket would try to appear just slightly interested in the transaction. On the other hand of all the bank tellers we have observed and heard about there is not one who could be termed surly, sour or indifferent. Obviously, what the theaters need is some of the discipline and training bank officers give their boys who grow up to be tellers.

BANK tellers add to their earnings by side-lines. Some of them are part-time automobile salesmen. A number of them get positions of trust in outside ventures where someone with impeccable honesty is needed to count the coin. So great is the prestige of bank tellers that to hear that this or that gentleman is a teller in a bank is to construct at once a monument in the mind's eye to the gentleman's honesty.

Occasionally, one of the boys succumb to temptation, but the statistics likely would show an enormous amount of honesty. Next to baseball umpires, who are the most honest men in their work we know of, bank tellers come. Columnists are third in this list. (Address all complaints to the complaint editor.)

GLOBE GIRDLING SEEN AS AGENCY OF PEACE

By JOHN HENRY MEARS.

(Copyright, 1928, by the New York American, Inc.)

NEW YORK, July 24.—Well, my race is over and the victory won. I started out to establish a new record for the fastest travel around the world. And I did. My time was 23 days, 15 hours, 21 minutes and 3 seconds, according to official records.

And now, looking back over the trip this question arises in my mind: What good was achieved, if any?

Sitting here in my comfortable suite at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel, it seems almost impossible to realize that little more than a week ago I was flying with my good pilot, Charles B. F. Collyer, over Europe, Siberia, China and Japan; that I was seeing the remotest parts of the world and being greeted and banqueted by peoples of whom this side of the world knows so little.

FEARED STRANGE FOODS

I can recall any number of minor incidents which happened to us in those far lands, just as though they had occurred yesterday, right here. When we landed in Chita, Siberia, for instance, we were very hungry. That was nothing new to us, because we feared the strange foods which were heaped upon us everywhere we went. Sickness would have proven fatal to our objective.

We tried to make ourselves explicit to the good people of Chita who had gathered to greet us that all we desired was some sandwiches. We felt we could take a chance on this much, at any rate. None of them spoke English, but they seemed to understand, and after we had finished superintending the servicing of our plane, the City of New York, we were beckoned to enter a small lunch room nearby the rough flying field.

FEAST FOR KINGS

Spread out before us there was the most elaborate meal even a king might expect, and every article on the table was strange to us. We couldn't eat it; yet we couldn't refuse such generosity. So we compromised by requesting that it be wrapped up so that we could take it along with us. We flew off from Chita with our pockets full of what probably was excellent food, and our stomachs terribly empty.

Further back, in Berlin, the Soviet officials, after courteously granting us passports for our trip over Russia, also granted us permission to break the seal of our camera when he landed in Moscow. But we found, on arrival there, that they had affixed a second seal, and we had no permission to break this one. As a result, we took no pictures in Russia or Siberia.

The Chinese were not so diplomatic. Reaching the frontier of China, we were frankly warned that to use the camera would mean immediate arrest, and the shattering of our hopes.

FRIENDLY FEELING

These incidents, and hundreds of others for which I have no space at present, are, as I say, as clear in my mind now as though they had occurred yesterday. And the thought that occurs to me is this:

My race has brought me closer to the rest of the world than I ever dreamed I could be. And it has given me a better understanding of those remote countries, and a friendlier feeling for their peoples.

My trip, of course, was that of a pioneer in quick travel. But once the rest of the world adopts quicker methods of travel, such as my trip demonstrated could so easily be achieved, then—a question:

The whole world is akin. With distance eliminated, won't that kinship bring a permanent end to world strife, and a general advancement toward that utopia of universal peace and brotherly love for which we are all striving?

If my race around the world has helped along that line, then I think it has achieved—well, something, anyway.

GUTHRIE BOLTS TO BACK HOOVER

The Democratic party in Pennsylvania sustained a serious loss when Francis S. Guthrie, one of the leaders of that party here, declared his intention of supporting Herbert Hoover for President.

"I will vote for Hoover," said Guthrie, who is secretary of the Allegheny County Elections Association, which caused the indictment and conviction of scores of election boards, "because it is vital that the next President be a man fully equipped by understanding, background and experience to carry on a proper foreign policy and to carry on economic policies necessary for the continued prosperity of the American people. These are the paramount issues."

Hoover, said Guthrie, is one of four truly outstanding characters in public life in his time, the others being Grover Cleveland, Theodore Roosevelt and Woodrow Wilson.

To compensate for the loss of Guthrie, reports came from the East that William Gallagher, former clerk of the Senate and one of the leaders of the Republican party in Luzerne county, is considering coming out for Gov. Alfred E. Smith. Gallagher has declined to confirm the reports. Luzerne is one of the counties which the Smith people expect to carry in Pennsylvania.

DOPE RING JOLTED

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 24.—(AP.)—Federal and state narcotic agents today believed they had broken up an alleged dope ring operating in this section of Pennsylvania, with the arrest of a Harrisburg man who was described as being the leader of the ring.

Chester Young, 26, was taken into custody charged specifically with forging names of city physicians to permits to obtain narcotics. Police who made the arrest seized 120 quarter-grain morphine tablets.

Two other members of the ring are being sought in other cities, where, police say, they are selling drugs obtained here.

Mother in Kidnaping Search

COLUMBUS, O., July 24.—Mrs. Elizabeth Morman, mother of Norma Morman, 20-year-old girl, who disappeared from her home in Pittsburgh May 15, was in Columbus today to aid police in the search for the girl.

Mrs. Morman discounted the elopement theory and said she was certain her daughter had been kidnaped.

"The man who took Norma away in an automobile so far as I know was not even acquainted with Norma," Mrs. Morman said.

Mrs. Morman will show a photograph of Norma to Mrs. N. G. Hoffhines, rooming house proprietress, who said a man and woman who might be the missing couple occupied rooms at her place last Saturday evening. She failed to identify a poor picture of the girl, but asserted the couple gave no indication the woman was being held against her will.

Belief that the couple came to Columbus was strengthened by the finding of an abandoned automobile here, the machine having been established as the one in which Miss Morman was spirited away from Pittsburgh.

Will Rogers Says

NEWPORT, R. I., July 24.

Well, here we are in Newport. They won't let an actor bathe at Bailey's Beach. I just come to show 'em that actors didn't need to bathe at Bailey's Beach. Keep the place for them that need it.

In flying from New York we flew low here over the beach and beautiful homes. That's one way they can't keep the riff-raff from looking in.

If this exclusiveness looks to me like a good thing, I'm going to take it back and introduce it in Beverley Hills. We screen folks won't let a mere millionaire land in our town, but New Port is a great old place. If you are not a sailor or a millionaire, you feel out of place here.

Flew over beautiful Montauk Point. Say, don't miss that. It's a wonderful place.

Yours, in Newport, but out of place,

WILL ROGERS.

The CONSTANT FLAME

Emily and Kent Do Some Detective Work and Find Some Clues

HE TOOK both her hands, holding them in a firm, warm clasp. "I might have known! That's the way I've always remembered you, Emily. Gentle and sweet. A fine thing, to trust me so."

He talked to her then of what they must do. "I've been turning over a theory. No good telling the sheriff; his men are a little like the animal in a china-shop at times. We'll do this together."

"Of course."

He put her into his car and headed for Deep Valley Inn. He was very thoughtful.

"Have you considered, Emily? You're tacitly accepting for your sister suspicion that belongs to mine. You have only to say a few words and end it."

"That doesn't matter, Kent. There'll be an end to it soon."

"It's only—of course you know what it would do to my work if this became public. Morrow and his cut-throats—you believe I'm honest in my work? That it's unselfish? I'd like you to think so."

She thrilled to the old pride in this boy, pleading for her approval. "I do think so. I've been so—so proud of you, Kent." And the gray eyes misted as they looked into his.

He put his hand over hers where it lay on the cushion, giving it a quick, firm pressure. "Bless you," he said.

They went over the grounds and the veranda and the private dining room at the Inn thoroughly, endlessly. But they found little; only two objects which might have a bearing on the case.

Caught in the edge of the shutter at the window on the veranda they found a shred of lace; a few fine black silk threads of unusual quality. Kent laid it carefully away in his bill fold.

And almost under the window where two boards left a shallow crevice in the floor they discovered what at first seemed to be a small golden splinter. Examination disclosed it a dagger, not more than half an inch long, formed of some tough yellow substance. This, too, Kent put away.

"It's been frightful for you, Emily." They were leaving when he said that. "You know I'd save you if I could? And now I let you go on bearing all the burden."

"Oh, please!"

But there was a shining in her heart. Years since she had felt that light, the singing in her veins. Almost, it was, as if all the games of Just Pretend that ever she had played in her life were coming true.

He drew up before the Wickert house on South River road. "Pay a call on the widow," he remarked. She followed him to the door.

A gloomy faced butler showed them into the drawing room, a great, dim apartment with drawn shades. They waited a long time for the former Spanish dancer.

Emily thought she never had seen a face so colorless nor eyes so bright, nor a figure so graceful under a lace mantilla, when the woman came in. Kent asked a question or two but Bianca answered wildly; quivering from head to foot she burst into a tirade against the dead man. Finally she began to move swiftly, making frantic, demented gestures.

It was when Kent inquired if she had seen Nicky the night of the murder that she hurled herself from the room.

In the door, however, she turned about and said something in Spanish, jerking her head. A tall comb slipped from her hair; after she had gone Emily picked it up from the rug. Not until they were in the car again did she realize that she still carried it.

"Take it back later," Kent said. "I'll want to see her again."

He dropped Emily at the shop and she told him goodby rather absently, eyes on the comb.

Once inside she became lively enough. With a great burst of energy she pulled a dusty volume from a shelf and searched the pages. When she found what she sought her elbows went up on the table and her chin down on her hands. She studied an old color print very carefully.

It was a plate of Spanish combs. And one of the pictures was almost a photographic likeness of the comb that lay beside it on the table, shimmering in a dull, yellow way.

Almost, but not quite.

CHAPTER LII.

WHEN Emily put the volume aside, her face was dashed with excited color and little shivers kept creeping along her spine.

She went at once to the telephone and called the District Attorney's office.

"Kent," she said, "I think I've found something. If I could see you now?"

But he was going over to Novel City and couldn't wait. He went on, quickly: "I've an errand at the Yacht Club later. Why not dine with me there?"

She accepted eagerly enough though later shyness overwhelmed her at the thought of dining at the Yacht Club with Kent. She'd have called him and broken the engagement then, had it been possible.

At least, she told herself, she could go home and put on another dress; not shame him by the little old blue one all splashed with dye she now wore.

She was choosing another work dress when pale gold flounces caught her eyes from the back of the closet. She took down the frock she had been saving such a long time. So dainty and sweet it was, such a sheen it put in her hair that she couldn't resist it. She looked very much like a pale, yellow rose when she met Kent at the club.

He was waiting for her in the lounge, a certain restlessness in his face which changed to admiration as he came forward.

"How beautiful you are, Emily. Exquisite as a song."

She flushed and kept her head down, fearful of the joy flooding into her heart.

When they were seated he got out the minute yellow dagger and the shred of lace and placed them side by side on the table. "Now let's hear what you have," he said.

She felt again the little shivers along her spine, the sudden, breathless excitement which had gripped her earlier in the day.

"I think Mrs. Wickert shot him," she declared, trying to keep her voice even. "Anyway, I'm sure she was there."

He did not seem surprised. But she saw the blue eyes narrow. From her hand bag she took Bianca's comb and placed it on the table. The comb was heavy, yellow tortoise shell, so hard and polished as to look like gold. And the curious design of the carving centered about three medallions, each shot through with a small dagger.

"You see, Kent? The danger is part of it. The comb may have dropped out of her hair as she stood there watching Nicky through the window, and that bit broke off.

A Modern Psyche -:- -:- By Fanny Darrell

BY THE pool, dreaming and wondering where in the world Cupid can be, and why she is left so alone, this modern Psyche dreams her dreams of love and fails to understand her "aloneness." Perhaps, Cupid is shy. And again, perhaps he feels that she isn't quite ready for Love.

But he's hiding and watching and who knows what may happen any minute. Perhaps the very one of whom she dreams will suddenly stand before her and then—gone will be the melancholy thoughts and all the lonesomeness and Cupid will gleefully chuckle that he has caused another pair to start on the path of Love and Happiness.

IT'S wonderful how many years a woman's love for a man can go on living on the memory of a six-weeks' ardent courtship.

If a man won't neglect his business for her, a woman feels that his regard for her doesn't amount to much; and if he will, her regard for him doesn't amount to ANYTHING.

Many a man who looks at his poor, starving wife nibbling at her reducing diet and at his practically naked daughter sitting on the beach, wonders why he should give money to feed and clothe the heathen.

In order to find out who is your most dangerous rival, get a man to tell about all the women in his life—and then look for the one he didn't mention.

The most amazing thing is the length of time it takes for an intelligent idea to penetrate the human brain. For instance, men struggled into shirts that went over the head for 50 years before anybody discovered the coat-shirt; and women who wear their dresses above their knees are still trying to sleep comfortably in nightgowns that reach to the toes.

To capture a man's imagination requires art, poise, subtlety and watchful waiting; but once a woman gets into a man's imagination, no other woman can ever crowd her out.

At least once in her life, every woman makes the tragic error of mistaking a Lothario for a Lochinvar.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

Wednesday, July 25

A VERY lively and interesting day as far as business activities are concerned is the forecast made from the ruling planetary configurations. New contracts and ventures may flourish, but probably not without friction or disagreements of a personal nature. Also social, domestic and affectional relations may feel the force of an unfriendly Venus and Jupiter, both by luna and in mutual aspect.

Those whose birthday it is are promised a lively and important year in business or professional activities, but other phases and affiliations may be visited with friction, misunderstandings and loss of property or prestige.

A child born on this day should be versatile and lively, but may have the personal relations involved or inharmonious. It may incline to prodigality or squandering its substance.

Madge Finds an Impatient Dicky Upon Her Return

MRS. TICER'S worried face and her parting words to me: "Maybe you and Mis' Underwood can figure out some way of helping her," troubled me all the way back to the farmhouse. But I had to put them aside when I reached the veranda, for Dicky's frown told me that I had committed the unpardonable sin of keeping him waiting for luncheon. The fact that my absence had been upon an errand of his did not mitigate his impatience.

"For spading up the lettuce bed!" he exclaimed as I came up the steps, "have you and Mrs. Ticer been comparing family trees? Katie's having a fit in the kitchen because her omelet is being spoiled by waiting."

"Why didn't you go on and eat it then?" I asked with a carelessness which I know is more infuriating to him than any wrathy answer I could give.

Dicky's frown darkened, and I knew that he was as angry at himself for forgetting our pact of courteous formality as he was at my nonchalance. It is one of the hardest tasks my impulsive, peppery husband has—this guarding his impatient speech when talking to me.

Lillian rose abruptly and walking across to me, thrust her hand beneath my elbow.

"Don't let him delay the game any longer," she said with superb impudence. "He may be able to get sustenance out of sawing the air and shouting, but I'm starving and I imagine you are. Your news will keep until after luncheon when Katie is safely back in the kitchen again."

She hurried me into the dining room and Dicky followed us sulkily. Fortunately Mother Graham was enjoying the luxury of a tray in her room something in which we indulge her as frequently as she wishes it, so I did not have to meet her always certain displeasure when any one keeps a meal waiting and the others at the table were not captious.

But Dicky was magnificently dour, and elaborately courteous. When the meal was over and we three were again upon the veranda—I had signaled Katherine to see that we were not disturbed—Lillian put both hands upon the lapel of his coat and shook him vehemently.

"Look here, young fella me lad," she said, explosively, "I'm not used to this rarefied air and I refuse to breathe it any longer. Just take a nose dive or hand me a parachute, I don't care which."

No matter how stubbornly angry Dicky is, Lillian is always able to bring him to time, chiefly, I fancy, because he knows the absolute futility of arguing with her. She has an uncanny faculty of always winning the victory in any contention. But when he took her hands from his shoulders and kissed her with apparent friendliness, I guessed that in reality he was yearning to box her ears. That Lillian shared my conjecture I knew when she laughed impudently at him.

"The stage kiss with a yen for a slap in the mind of the kisser—and—the kisses"—she said. "But it will do. Go on, Madge, spill the beans. What did Mrs. Ticer say?"

With the reservation of most of Mrs. Ticer's conversation for Lillian's private ear, I told of my neighbor's assurance that no news of the sketches made of Miss Lincoln by Dicky would go out from the Ticer family.

"And I put the fear of God into Katie and all the rest of the family here while you were gone," Lillian commented. "They're all sewed up for the Winter. But what about Noel Veritzen and young Mr. Jackson? They spend a good deal of time at The Larches, don't they? Do they know about the sketching?"

New Lingerie Fad

Sheer, startling and seductive is the new flowered silk voile lingerie trimmed in black lace. Many of the most attractive nighties and combinations have black flowers printed upon a flesh ground. With their irregular hem lines and their sashes at the normal waistline, many nightgown models closely resemble smart frocks.

Pendants Popular

Elaborately jeweled pendants are popular in Paris. They are unusually large and of varying shapes. These are often set with amethysts, pearls, jade and sapphires.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

by Royal S. Copeland M.D.

U.S. Senator from New York

Treating Victims of Strangulation

I AM asked frequently what should be done for a person overcome by smoke or suffering the effects of strangulation. In drowning, hanging and exposure to dense smoke, we have conditions in which lack of air produces loss of consciousness. The skin is purple, the veins stand out, the heart action grows weaker and weaker. There is gasping for breath and very soon the heart ends its efforts.

DR. COPELAND

But you must never jump at the conclusion that nothing can be done. Even though the pulse cannot be felt or the heart heard, there is always the hope that life can be saved.

Suppose you are called upon to help care for a suffocating person, what are you to do?

Make sure there is no foreign substance in the throat. Pull the tongue forward and see that the nostrils are clear. Remove tight clothing, especially around the neck.

While you are performing artificial respiration as in drowning, you must keep the victim warm by covering with blankets, and surrounding with hot water bottles, hot bricks, or hot sand bangs. Sometimes rectal injections of warm strong coffee will produce useful stimulation.

If the patient is a young child, the old-fashioned method of mouth-to-mouth inflation may do good. Place a piece of coarse gauze over the victim's mouth and blow air into the lungs. Then expel it by pressure on the chest. This should be kept up 15 or 16 times per minute.

If a body is cut down after a hanging the application of cold water to the head and neck may stimulate breathing. The same methods used in reviving a drowned person should be employed.

Asphyxiations from smoke are quite common in cities where fires are frequent. What the smoke will do depends to a great extent upon the material which is on fire.

For instance, burning rags, wet hay, paper, varnish and lumber make a smoke which is very irritating to endure. Tar and pitch are less disturbing. When the smoke is mixed with fumes of chemicals it is very damaging to human beings who are caught in it.

At first there are choking, dizziness, sickness at the stomach and severe headaches. Coughing, vomiting and violent action of the heart are other symptoms. The eyes burn and run water. Then there is loss of consciousness.

Carry the victim to a safe place, loosen the clothing and collar and keep him warm. If necessary, use artificial respiration as for the relief of drowning.

Do not try to pour water or a stimulant down the throat of an unconscious person. It may cause choking and drowning.

After the breathing is restored, terrible headache is a symptom. Relieve the headache by applying an ice pack or cold water compresses to the forehead.

The cough and bronchitis, as well as the irritated eyes, will require appropriate treatment for a few days. The family doctor will be in charge now.

In poisoning from illuminating gas, almost the same procedures are demanded as for the treatment of drowning, or smoke asphyxiations. If an oxygen tank can be procured, this gas should be used if there is any breathing. If not, then artificial respiration should be resorted to as in drowning.

The pulmotor and lung motor are kept within reach in the cities. They do wonderful work in resuscitation.

Of course the doctor should be sent for at once. But these suggestions promptly applied may save a life.

Answers to Health Queries

S. E. Q.—What can be done for sore and inflamed eyes? Is the sun beneficial under the circumstances?

A.—Have the eyes examined to find out the cause of the trouble. Bathing with a weak solution of boracic acid several times daily and applying 1 per cent yellow oxide of mercury ointment at night will be helpful in the meantime. It would be unwise to expose the eyes to direct sunlight when they are weak and inflamed.

Little Me

DEAR MISS GALE:

I am a constant reader of your column and think your advice is wonderful, Miss Gale, don't you think it is harder for a nice girl to get a nice fellow than vice-versa? There are lots of nice girls, but to try and find a nice fellow. I found one, but I soon was disgusted with him. I used to wait two and three hours for him to come, but he would never show up. If he didn't have his machine we would never have gone out. I went with him a year and he took me to a show once. I love to dance, but he couldn't. Isn't there some nice fellow who could dance and swim and show me a good time? I don't like to sit around and pet. I don't think a kiss once in awhile hurts, but this thing of always necking I cannot see. I play the piano a little, dance and swim, but I don't have a boy friend any more. I am only young and like to have a good time in a nice way. Miss Gale, I don't want you to think I am a gold digger, because I am not. A fellow took me out one night and told me he liked to because I didn't want everything I saw like most girls. May I say a word to Downhearted? Don't be downhearted because you are not as tall as your friend. I am not so tall myself. It isn't your height as Miss Gale told you it wasn't, it is just that your right girl hasn't come along such as my right fellow hasn't. Miss Gale, I wish you lots of luck.

LITTLE ME.

Where are all these boys who write to me and say that they cannot find girls who do not expect to drink and pet? There are lots of nice boys, my dear, so don't get discouraged.

Perplexed

DEAR MISS GALE:

I read your wonderful advice in The Sun-Telegraph every night, and have decided to come for some.

I am a young man 27 years old and single. I have many friends, both among girls and among fellows, and am considered quite popular.

My problem is this: I feel that I would like to find a nice, good girl, keep steady company for a year or two and then be married. I have a rather good position and lots of ambition and could well afford to keep a wife, but the trouble is that I never see any girl whom I think I might learn to love and later marry. I don't think that I am so particular, but it seems I just can't learn to be crazy about anyone. I have had lots of "cases," but none of them ever lasted very long, and I was always thankful afterwards that I had not married any of them, for I knew I would have made a mistake.

I would appreciate any advice you could give me, and thank you in advance for it.

PERPLEXED.

You haven't found the right girl yet, that is all. Your plan sounds sensible, but just a bit cold-blooded, Perplexed. Love doesn't come that way. It just "happens" usually. The surest way to keep from falling in love is to try to do so. Don't mix business methods with your friendships with girls, and you will be in a better mood to fall in love.

IS ANYTHING more irritating than to hear women in a bragging bout?

No matter what one has to say the other can always outstump her!

Anything one likes, the other was bored with long ago. They will stop at nothing to stump each other.

Some even order C. O. D. stuff they cannot afford to make the others think they can. The stuff is not accepted when it is delivered and returns to the store.

I don't think women like that buy tickets for matinees to see the play. It's the intermissions they look forward to.

A bored silence when stumped by some remark she had not thought to make herself seems to be almost as good as if she had said it first!

The War on Fat

Look about you — Note its results

For 20 years medical men have been conducting a scientific war on fat. They have been using a factor which science discovered. A certain gland food which greatly affects nutrition. They found in this gland deficiency a great cause of obesity.

A great American laboratory, years ago, embodied this factor in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 20 years—millions of boxes of them. Now anyone can see, in any circle, how slenderness prevails. Excess fat is nowhere near as common as it was.

Users have told friends about it, and the use has grown. People are now using some 5,000,000 tablets monthly. And the joys they bring in new beauty and health are enormous.

Now fat reduction does not require abnormal exercise or diet, though moderation helps. People combat the cause. They take four Marmola tablets daily until weight comes down to normal, then desist.

Users know the reasons for results. A book in each box gives the complete Marmola formula. And fully explains how the fat loss comes in a normal and helpful way.

Don't wait longer, when so many have for 20 years enjoyed the results of Marmola. It may mean more to you than anything else you know. Go start today and let the results tell you how long to continue. You will be amazed and delighted.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1.00 a box. Any druggist who is out will order from his jobber.

Painter, Knocked Off Scaffold by Truck, Sues

Hit by a brewery truck while he was working on a scaffold which hung from an overgrade bridge, Peter Athas, a painter, filed suit for $25,000 in Common Pleas Court yesterday against the Ft. Pitt Brewing Company. Athas was one of a group of painters working on the Pennsylvania Railroad bridge over Anderson street. The scaffold, he says, was protected by a ladder set against the bridge from which a bright red flag waved. The truck, piled high with cases, ignored the danger signal and knocked the plank on which he stood from the scaffold. His back was broken, he says, causing him to be totally disabled.

Duquesne Railroad Man Feels Like New; All Suffering Ended By Ten Herbs.

"Ten Herbs has made a new man of me," was the statement of Mr. W. C. Daugherty, 413 Augusta Street, Duquesne, Pa., (near Pittsburgh), to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily demonstrating this great natural medicine. "The world looks brighter now, as I feel better in every respect," continued Mr. Daugherty, who is employed by the P. & L. E. Railroad.

MR. W. C. DAUGHERTY

"Since last December, I had a siege of indigestion and dyspepsia. I got so I was actually afraid to eat, as I would fill with gas, which would work up around my heart. I would get so short of breath that I would almost smother. On several occasions I thought every breath would be the last. I was badly constipated. This naturally caused my liver to become very sluggish. I had terrible headaches and bilious spells, and often got so dizzy that I had to hold to something to keep from falling. Nervousness kept me from sleeping at night. I was irritable, and got so I wanted to be alone. My weight dropped off 12 pounds.

"I had been hearing of so many of my fellow employees talking about Ten Herbs that I started using your medicine. After taking it awhile, I can enjoy my meals without fear of misery afterwards. Gas does not form—no more heart palpitation, or shortness of breath. My appetite has improved, and I have gained in weight. My bowels are regular, and this alone is worth more than the price of Ten Herbs. My liver and kidneys are working fine. No more biliousness, headaches, or dizzy spells. I sleep like a child, as my nerves are stronger, and I rise feeling rested and refreshed. One can readily see why I do not hesitate to endorse Ten Herbs to the public."

The Ten Herbs Man is at May's Main Store, 529 Liberty Avenue, Pittsburgh, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine.

TILDEN LOST TO U. S. DAVIS CUP TEAM

Famous Last Words: "Have You Practiced Getting Up, Mr. Tunney?"

★ SUN-TELEGRAPH ★ SPORTS ★

PICKS HEENEY

NEW YORK, July 24.—Jack Britton, former welterweight champion, who has a great record as a picker, says Tom Heeney will defeat Gene Tunney in their bout Thursday night.

WOMEN SETS RECORD; TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

NEW YORK, July 24.—(AP.)—Mrs. Myrtle Huddleston, of Chicago, is said to be in a critical condition after being taken from the Metropolitan Swimming Pool at the end of a 54-hour grind in which she swam back and forth in the pool to break her own endurance record of 50 hours and 10 minutes.

Physicians at St. Francis Hospital said she was suffering from exhaustion.

Mrs. Huddleston entered the pool on Saturday morning.

America's Hopes Fade

NEW YORK, July 24.—(AP.)—United States Lawn Tennis Association officials here have endorsed the action of their president, Samuel H. Collom, in notifying the French Tennis Federation that, despite its request that William T. Tilden be allowed to play in the Davis Cup challenge round, he will not be reinstated.

The following cablegram signed by the advisory committee of the U. S. L. T. A. and by its treasurer, Louis J. Carruthers, was sent to the Paris address of President Collom on receipt of word from him of his action:

"Hearty congratulations on victory over Italian team. Please convey congratulations to individual members our team with expression our full confidence in them. All consulted endorse sentiment and the position expressed in your message to French Association that charges against Tilden should stand and agree that he should not be reinstated on team."

Thus the last door was closed on the possibility that Tilden would lead the battle against the French which is to begin Friday.

Among those in the group which framed the cablegram endorsing President Collom's action were Holcombe Ward, chairman of the amateur rules committee; James S. Cushman, Charles S. Garland, Dean Mathey, Carruthers and Paul W. Gibbons of Philadelphia. This group did not comprise a formal meeting, according to Edward B. Moss, executive secretary of the association, but assembled to send the cablegram after the opinions of members of the advisory committee had been learned by telephone.

FRANCE DISAPPOINTED.

PARIS, July 24.—(AP.)—Disbarment of Bill Tilden, America's eight times tennis champion, continued to be the main subject of conversation for Paris tennis fans as members of the French and United States Davis cup teams practiced for the play to begin Friday.

The French especially are concerned in view of the almost complete collapse of gate receipts for the matches between the United States without Tilden, and Italy. America's action in ruling Tilden out was held to have "taken the life out of the Davis cup challenge round."

Boxing Notes

JIM McGIRR, McKeesport promoter, is back home from a vacation and has received word that Cuddy DeMarco is O. K. again and ready to go through with his bout with Larry Brignolia, scheduled for Cycler Park, McKeesport, Monday night of last week and postponed because of injuries suffered by DeMarco in a bout with Joey La Grey at Ebensburg. McGirr will get in touch with Brignolia's manager, Tommy Maxwell, at Erie today, and arrange for a new date, which may be next week.

Jules Beck has matched Garfield Johnson, local Negro light-heavyweight star, and Osk Till, of Rochester, N. Y., formerly one of Gene Tunney's sparring partners, for the main bout of his next show, at the Duquesne Steel baseball park in Duquesne, Monday evening, August 6.

Young Saylor reports he got the worst of a bum decision at Conneaut Lake Park last night, when the judges disagreed and the referee awarded the verdict to Bucky Lawless after a hot 10-round bout. Saylor claims he won seven of the 10 rounds, and not the reverse, as stated in news reports from the scene of battle.

George Courtney, New York middleweight, boxes Wilson Yarbo at Cleveland tonight. Bruce Flowers, Negro lightweight, meets Lope Tenerio, the Filipino, at the Queensboro Stadium, New York.

Frankie Porto, formerly of McKeesport and now of Midland, boxes Stanley Williams in a 10-round bout at Nevins Field, Bridgeport, O., tonight.

LACOSTE WON'T PLAY IN U. S.

AUTEUIL, France, July 24.—(AP.)—Rene LaCoste has decided he will not defend his American tennis championship this year and will not proceed to the United States with the remainder of the French team next month, he announced today.

LaCoste insisted the decision was not prompted by the Franco-American controvery concerning the barring of Big Bill Tilden from the Davis cup challenge round. He said he made up his mind several weeks ago.

The general interpretation of LaCoste's action at the stadium here was that France was taking a shot back at the United States Lawn Tennis Association for the disqualification of Tilden which the French consider has practically wrecked interest in the challenge round for the Davis Cup, held by France for the first time in history.

LaCoste's father volunteered the information that Rene was greatly upset at the disqualification of Tilden which deprives the French star of what he saw as another chance to show his superiority over America's ranking No. 1 player.

"I am rather sorry at Rene's decision," said his father. "I would have liked to have him bring the American championship cup back to France after his third victory if it could be achieved."

All Rene would say was, "We would rather lose the Davis Cup than retain it when there may be some excuse in the absence of Tilden."

YANKS DISAPPOINTED

NEW YORK, July 24.—(AP.)—The news that Rene Lacoste will not defend his United States championship was learned with surprise and disappointment today at the offices of the nited States Lawn Tennis Association.

Lacoste as the chamvion was counted upon to be the main drawing card in the title tournament which is scheduled to begin September 20 at the West Side Tennis Club at Forest Hills. The final round duel for the championship between Lacoste and Bill Tilden last September drew a capacity crowd and a big gate.

Say goodbye to tenderface!

New shaving cream with double-dense lather gives greater lubrication—soothes, heals, gives smoother shaves

NO longer need you suffer from painful skin-irritation after shaving. For here is a new kind of shaving cream, with a wonderful lubricating lather, that ends all burning and smarting—ends tenderface.

The cause of most shaving irritation is friction—the rough scraping of razor over skin. Only by complete lubrication can you end this friction.

A lubricating lather

Lifebuoy Shaving Cream meets this need for complete lubrication. Its healing, double-dense lather crowds right down into the pores, clinging so closely to the skin that a thoroughly lubricated shaving surface is formed.

No unprotected spots, as with light, frothy lather. No tugging. No pulling. As you shave, your razor scarcely seems to touch you. Yet every trace of hair is gone.

Furthermore, you benefit by the same antiseptic ingredient that has made Lifebuoy Health Soap so popular. Your skin is kept clear, smooth, healthy. Get the big red tube today.

Fussell Pitching as Well as Any Other Left-Hander in National League—Bucs Have Chance to Reach Fifth Place Today—Miljus Said to Be Demanding Bonus in Transfer.

IN summing up the improved pitching and other factors that have entered into the spurt of the Pirates, don't overlook the splendid hurling of Fred Fussell.

It was only a continuation of the fine work that the left-hander has been doing for some time when he beat the Robins in their own backyard yesterday, despite the fact that his mates made only two runs behind him.

Fred Fussell

In doing so, incidentally, Fussell enabled the Bucs to win two out of three games in the first series on the Eastern trip, and he also got personal revenge for the defeat he suffered at "Buzz" McWeeny's hands in their slab duel here last Thursday.

ONLY two runs should have been scored against the Buc southpaw in those two games, a fielding slip by Traynor giving the Dodgers two of their three tallies in last Thursday's clash.

THE Corsairs made only two runs, all told, for Fussell in his two games against Brooklyn, being shut out on Thursday, yet he got an even break in the pair of engagements.

FUSSELL'S high-class pitching has not been confined to the recent Brooklyn games. No other left-hander in the league has been doing better than the Wichita Falls recruit during the last five weeks.

A sore arm and the fact that he is not a cold weather hurler held Fussell back until the middle of June, but since then he

SPEAKING OF SPORTS
by HARRY KECK
SUN-TELEGRAPH SPORTS EDITOR

WHEN a man has devoted all of his working days to a special line of work and has picked out a job for himself that he figures he can rely upon so long as he delivers the goods and then suddenly finds himself cut off from it and has to look around for a new connection that may make it necessary for him to move his family a considerable distance—say, that's a tough break, isn't it?

Ollie DeVictor.

That's the sort of a break that has come to Ollie DeVictor, capable trainer and equipment man of the Pitt athletic teams, who has just been notified that he is to go in the general reorganization of the Panthers' athletic system.

OLLIE has been with Pitt for eight years, during which time the Panthers have touched some high spots in athletic achievement. He has just completed his best year, three Pitt teams of the last college term, in football, basketball and swimming, having gone through their regular season undefeated. Ollie put in long hours to help keep the athletes fit for the various campaigns, and gained as much satisfaction out of their triumphs as the veriest freshman in all of the latter's youthful enthusiasm. And now, with his best work behind him, he is out of a job.

Ollie's dismissal from the service becomes effective September 1. Until about that time, because of the vacation season, it will be difficult for him to get in touch with the authorities of other institutions that might have an opening for a man of his special talents. Thus he gets another bad break. If he had received notification a month sooner that he was to go in the general chopping off of heads under the new athletic regime of the university he could have made some contacts looking toward the fall. As matters stand now, most of the

CHAMPION AND FOE IN BEST OF FORM

NEW YORK, July 24.—(AP.)—Though the supreme test of his championship career is but 48 hours away, Gene Tunney has yet to reach the irritated stage which tradition demands of a prize fighter on edge.

This unique ruler of fistiana, now self-trained to the last muscle for the defense of his crown against Tom Heeney, the New Zealander, in the Yankee Stadium Thursday night, has turned to horse play at his camp at Speculator, N. Y., to divert his mind from the contest.

While the champion is raising hob with his handlers and particularly his manager, Billy Gibson, blunt Tom Heeney, unaccustomed to camouflaging his thoughts when interviewers prod him with questions, frankly admitted today at his Fairhaven (N. J.) camp, that he is in the best condition of his fighting career, ready and eager to give Gene Tunney the battle of his life when they meet Thursday night.

The six weeks' training campaign of this good natured, rock-ribbed New Zealander is over. He is glad of it. He finished his boxing yesterday. Today there was nothing for him to do but take a 15-minute workout in the gymnasium with no more work with the gloves. Tomorrow will be a day of complete relaxation with not even a gesture of training.

Heeney, too, is in rollicking good humor. He had a cheery "Oh, 'ello 'ello," for everybody and a grin that was infectious. His easy going disposition had returned, following the mental strain of Sunday when he boxed before Jack Dempsey, Promoter Tex Rickard and others. These mental clouds were swept

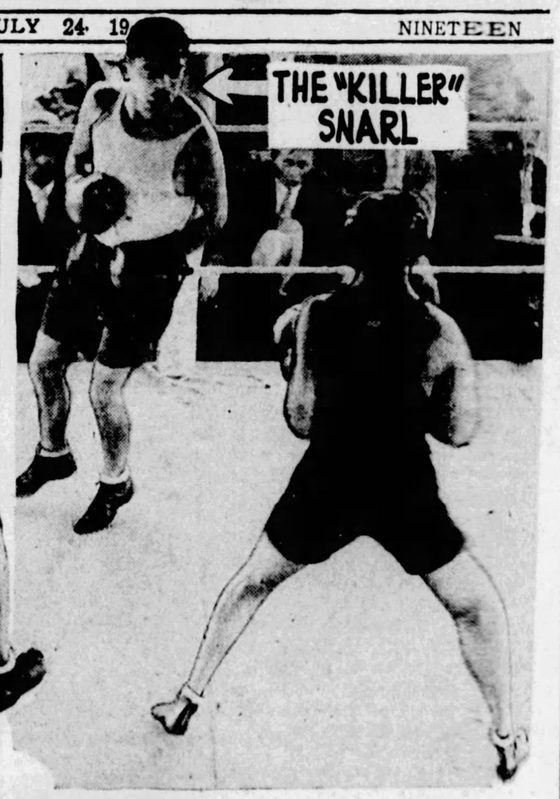
RUSHING BILLY VIDABECK



THE "KILLER" SNARL

ACTION

Champion Gene Tunney suddenly has been transformed from a clever boxer into a rushing fighter, with his bout with Tom Heeney at the Yankee Stadium, New York, close at hand. No wonder those who have seen him undergo the change are predicting he will try hard for a knockout.

THE OLD LIFE

What's this Tunney is doing here? Rushing his foe and continuing the assault with both fists at close quarters, and nothing else but. Say, this fellow can fight as well as box, or else the camera lies!

NO PINK TEA

Here we have another fighting view of the champion, even down to the fighting face. Gene (wearing the light jersey) has his lips curled back over his teeth in a real snarling manner, and when a boxer gets that way it's time to duck and run.

DAWSON TO FACE M'GRAW CREW

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Sun-Telegraph Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, July 24.—Manager Bush of the Pirates had to pass up his first-choice sharpshooters and delve into his reserve strength to select a pitcher to face the Giants this afternoon.

To name a finger for the opener with the Men of McGraw, Donie had the alternative of using one of his second-string pitchers or calling on some star who has had less than three days of rest. He chose the former plan, Joe Dawson getting the slab ticket.

Aviator Joe is likely to buckle into Larry Benton in the initial clash. Joe, however, has had plenty of rest and, therefore, he should be able to give a good account of himself. Dawson's stride at the beginning of the season was one of the few pleasing parts of the Buccaneer play, but as the race advanced, the Louisville graduate suffered a reversal of form and lost his place among the regular starters.

The Freebooters today were singing the praises of Fred Fussell, smart left-hander, who yesterday looked the part of a Plank or a Cooper (I'll restrain my enthusiasm below the point of saying Fred is a combination of both), as he defeated the Dodgers, 2 to 1, and thereby evened a score with Douglas (Buzz) McVeeny, who lost Thursday at Forbes Field won a close 3-2 decision over the Nebraskan.

Taylor, who will report next year, is hitting .382, having collected 125 hits for a total of 225 bases, including 14 home runs. While not stating the purchase price, President W. L. Veeck of the Cubs said that a handsome figure had been paid for the player.

LOMSKI VICTOR

NEW YORK, July 24.—(AP.)—Leo Lomski, Aberdeen, Wash., light heavyweight contender, pounded out a 10-round decision over Georgie Smith, of Newark, in the feature bout at the Dexter Park arena last night. Most of the bout was fought under a pouring rain.

CHAMPION REGARDS TOM AS THREAT

By GENE TUNNEY,
Heavyweight Champion of the World.

SPECULATOR, N. Y., July 24.—Now that Jack Dempsey, according to newspaper accounts, has picked Tom Heeney to win the championship from me at the Yankee Stadium, my own judgment in rating Heeney the foremost contender of the heavyweight fighters is substantiated.

GENE TUNNEY

Many boxing writer experts are likewise finding Heeney the prospective winner. I have never underrated Heeney's fistic ability. In all his fights in this country he showed himself to be far superior to the other challengers.

He backs up exceptional ring courage with short-range punishment that wears down his opponents. When he fought Jack Sharkey the big Lithuanian came tearing out of his corner and threw a right-hand punch that started at his heels. Heeney took it without even a blink, but instead kept boring straight on into the Boston fighter.

Again in his fights with Jimmy Maloney he took a terrific right-hand punch under the heart that Jimmy let go with all he had. Heeney apparently was not bothered a bit and quickly whipped over a hook to the chin that put Maloney out.

In spite of the prediction of my predecessor, Mr. Dempsey, and the selections made by some of the experts, I am fully confident of my ability to hold the heavyweight title, and that when the bout is ended it will be my hand the referee raises as that of the winner.

RUNS SIX MILES

Only six miles of road work comprised my training yesterday. Today I will have my final workout with Mays and Vidabeck. Tomorrow will be a day of slight limbering-up exercise, and Thursday morning I will fly to New York.

From the volume of telegrams and letters expressing opposition to the trip by air, I would like to reply that I believe I have much to live for. I am quite desirous of carrying on to enjoy them, and for that reason will not abandon my plans to go by plane.

When I fought Tommy Gibbons I made the trip to New York by train two days before the fight. The night before it was so hot in the city that I never closed my eyes. When I went into the ring I was like a wet rag.

If I did the same for Heeney I would be slaughtered. That's why I am going by air.

PIRATES

Sprout with a fine double who put the two big tallies in the scoring zone, and on defense, Lloyd was a veritable whirlwind with eight putouts, some of which were of the feature brand. The wee centerfielder started the fans to noisy comment in the sixth, seventh and eighth rounds when he retired five of the Dodgers in a row.

The Buccos had to have nearly all of the breaks to leave the Flatbush ship with the home-line decision. A fumble and a balk stood out in the sixth inning jubilee of the Bucco's, but Sprout's two-sacker deserved some sort of a good reaction.

The Dodgers tallied their only run in the second inning. Dave Isaacroft whacking a single to left with two out and Pressler on second. Rice opened the inning with a double, but was still there as Bann batted. at counter assumed mountainous proportions as the battle waged out beyond the fifth frame, and then came the bit of luck that swayed the game toward the Pirate dugout.

Sparky Adams pried off the sixth with a hot drive to Hendrick who obligingly fumbled the shot. Sprout hit the right-field wall for a double, Sparky stopping at third. As the hard-working McWeeny started his move toward the plate on Paul Waner something happened that caused him to pause in his motion and a balk was declared. Umpire Jorda allowed the claim of Manager Bush and Adams crossed the plate. Lloyd moved to third. Hendrick then turned in a fine catch of Paul Waner's foul, but Grantham drove a single to right and L. Waner tallied.

has proved himself a real pitcher. In the last six games in which he has appeared he has worked a total of 45 2-3 innings, or a shade more than five full contests, and in that time only six runs can be charged against him.

AS the result of yesterday's victory over the Dodgers, from whom they took four out of seven games in a row here and in Brooklyn, the Forbes Field athletes have another opportunity to get out of sixth place and oust the Robins from the fifth position. The Bucs, who have won 13 of their last 16 games are now right on Brooklyn's heels, and if they succeed in winning the first game of their series in New York this afternoon, and the Robins lose to the Cardinals, Pittsburgh will gain possession of fifth place with a percentage of .517 against a mark of .511 for the Dodgers. The Pirates have been in the sixth hole for over two months or since May 15.

WHILE a fanfest was in progress among some old and new players and baseball critics, some one, as usual in such cases, wondered what Honus Wagner, Pittsburgh's diamond immortal, would do to the present-day lively ball if he were still in his prime, and how he would compare with Rogers Hornsby as a hitter.

Honus Wagner

There was one man present who was pretty-well qualified to decide the question. That man was Buck Herzog, former major league star and manager, and he did not hesitate to express his views.

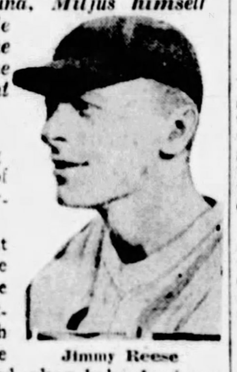
HERZOG broke into the majors when Wagner was at his heyday, and dropped out when Rogers Hornsby was beginning to reach his prime. Buck assured Tom Holmes and the rest that Wagner was a greater hitter than Hornsby.

"Old Honus would hit .400 every year if he were playing today," said Herzog. "He could do more things up at the plate than Hornsby. He was just as good a straightaway hitter, and much more of a scientific hitter.

"WAGNER could place his hits as well as any man who ever lived. And he had no weaknesses. It was about Wagner that they coined the old expression, 'His only weakness is a base on balls.'

"Wagner's batting averages were as impressive in his day and age as Hornsby's are in modern times. All the affidavits in the world can't convince me that they're playing ball with the same kind of balls that they used in 1907 or thereabouts. Granting Babe Ruth is the hardest hitter of all time, he'd never could have made 25 home runs in a season back in the days when other good sluggers led the major leagues with a total of seven or eight."

NOW that Commissioner Landis has settled the question as to the club to which John Miljus belongs by sending him to Cleveland, Miljus himself threatens to cause another tangle in the case. It is reported that the pitcher demands a bonus from one side or other before he will consent to pitch anywhere.



Jimmy Reese

THE Yankees may not be so willing now to cancel their purchase of Jimmy Reese and let some other American League club get him.

For it is reported from the coast that after a bad slump the Coast League second base star has come back like the proverbial homing pigeon and is knocking the fans out of their season with some of the most dazzling plays of the year. "He's looking natural again and when he's playing at his normal gait no second-baseman in baseball has anything on him," is the way Manager Ivan Howard sizes up the changed situation.

Why Have Indigestion?

Nine out of ten cases of indigestion are totally unnecessary. Excess acid is almost always the cause, and quick relief is only a matter of removing this acid which sours the food and permits the formation of painful gas. Heeney Has Fighting Chance—Dempsey

By JACK DEMPSEY,
Former Heavyweight Champion.

NEW YORK, July 23.—The first time I ever saw Tom Heeney was the night when he caught up with Jim Maloney, smacked him a few smacks and ended the evening's entertainment in less than one round. The fight was so short I didn't get much of an opportunity to size up the man from New Zealand, but, just the same I came away figuring that this fellow is quite a puncher.

My next view of him was when he worked out Sunday.

I'm told by all the boys who have been experting around his camp for weeks that it was a sloppy performance by Tom; that he didn't have the usual zip, that he wasn't hitting with all the force or accuracy that's possible for him and that he was taking plenty more punches on his chin than is customary.

All in all, the boys told me, it was a bad workout on Heeney's part.

Well, if Sunday's show was a bad one—if Tom can do much better than he did on Sunday—it seems to me that he's nobody's toy bulldog.

I figure that he's going to tear into Tunney at the start, wade right through a blizzard of jabs and crosses and make it a fight all the way. And let's not forget that a fighting ringman has a chance any time, anywhere, under any circumstances against anybody.

away by the thoughts of no more training, which he regards tougher than the fight itself. He planned to go sailing on a private yacht along the New Jersey shore some time today.

GENE IN SHAPE

The champion, who has never been in better shape, planned to go through his usual punching bag exercises and then take on his sparring partners, Harold Mays and Billy Vidabeck, for three rounds each.

This done, Tunney will taper off until Thursday morning at 10 o'clock when he will take off from Lake Pleasant in a dual motored Sikorsky amphibian, piloted by Bill Winston, Curtiss Field flier who was operating the plane which crashed into a tree near here last week, causing slight injuries to himself and Charles V. Bob, one of Commander Byrd's financial backers.

The exact destination of the amphibian has not been announced but it is probable that Winston will make an attempt to land the ship in the Hudson River near Fiftieth street. This is but a short distance from the Madison Square Garden where Tunney has an engagement to weigh in at 2 p. m. on the day of the fight.

Tunney today weighed 190 pounds but he was expected to drop several of them during this afternoon's workout. A day of rest, plus a night of sound sleep in his lakeside cabin, will restore the lost poundage and Tunney, Lou Fink, his trainer said, will weigh about 191 pounds when he steps on the scales.

colleges and universities are set for the new term, or will not take up any new business until the new term opens, which means that it may be months before Ollie can catch on. Ollie also could have made a trip to the Olympic Games with Knute Rockne's party if he had known his status sooner.

DeVICTOR has given some 20 years of his life to training athletes, taking care of their equipment and medical needs and watching over grounds and other property. He started out in Y. M. C. A. and school work in Harrisburg and from there went to Williamsport. From Williamsport he moved to Penn State College, where he remained nine years, and from State he came to Pitt. One year intervened between the transfer from State to Pitt. During that span he worked as greenskeeper of the Portage Country Club at Akron and also took care of the Fairlawn Country Club, nearby. While at State he helped to lay out the golf course of the college and at Pitt he directed the reconstructing of the playing field and cinderpath after the Stadium was built. On the job early and late, he was a favorite with the Pitt students and the athletic heads who have been removed. Apparently his only sin has been that he belonged to the old regime, which made Pitt a powerful factor in the national collegiate athletic field and is being gradually replaced in every department.

Ollie is a good man out of a job. Somewhere some college needs a man of his caliber and attainments, and if this screed will help to bring the pair together it will have served its purpose. Incidentally, it might be mentioned that during the eight years he has been with Pitt, DeVictor has turned down an offer to join Pop Warner at Leland Stanford University in California, whence Pop went after leaving Pitt, and also has declined bids from Tulane and Miami universities, for all of which loyalty he now is being signally rewarded by being summarily decapitated from his job.

Why Wall Street Call Loan Rates Fluctuate Widely.

—By B. C. FORBES—

WHY does Wall Street charge 10 per cent or 8 per cent on one day for call loans and only perhaps 5½ per cent or 6 per cent the next day?

Also, why is it that there are days when outsiders can't get their money lent to brokers at the prevailing rates?

This column today answers these and other questions which have lately been puzzling many people.

A WELL-TO-DO man asked a New York bank to lend money for him on call—that, by the way, is the name given loans made for one day, subject to being called the next day. He received this reply:

"We were unable to loan for your account $———, as set forth in your letter of yesterday..... As a matter of fact it was impossible to even place that amount today as there was very little demand for money, the rate sagging from an 8 per cent renewal to 5 per cent on the board, outside money at 4 per cent.

"We have been given to understand that the stock exchange were unable to lend $25,000,000 or more, placed with them by banking institutions for that purpose."

HE sends me that letter with this comment:

"In view of the statement emanating from official sources in control of rates for money that the reason for the recent high rate was the tightness of money, I am unable, as a layman, to reconcile these statements with the statements made in this letter. Will you enlighten me?"

I PUT the whole matter up to Francis H. Sisson, vice president of the Guaranty Trust Company of New York, who combines a thorough knowledge of banking with an unusual faculty for making things clear to the average mind. Mr. Sisson writes:

"IN order to understand the recent wide fluctuations in call money rates, one must realize that, in spite of the total of four to five billion dollars in brokers' loans, a change of $25,000,000 to $50,000,000 in the supply of money available in any one day can make the difference between extreme tightness and abundance in the money market. On any given date brokers must have a certain amount of money, with little possible flexibility in their requirements. When, therefore, $25,000,000 is taken out of the market at one time, practically all this must be replaced, and brokers who have had their loans called must bid for money at rates to attract funds which have not previously been in the market. On the other hand, if a similar amount is suddenly made available, it is probable that no new demand will simultaneously be created, and the new funds must be offered at rates which will make it attractive for borrowers to pay off some of their existing loans and make new ones.

"THE fact that such a large proportion of call money is supplied from outside of New York adds to the instability of the market. Out-of-town lenders ordinarily decide to call in or put out money on the basis of the rates prevailing at the close of the previous business day, whereas by the time their funds, or their call for funds, have reached the market, the situation may have changed materially, but they are not sufficiently close to the situation to adapt their action to rapid changes.

"THE condition prevailing during the last few weeks illustrates what has been said above. June 30th, the date when all banks make their semi-annual statements, came on a Saturday. A large proportion of the Federal Reserve member banks were borrowing from the central institution, and, naturally, they desired to show the minimum of loans on that day.

"IN order to do this, a number of them apparently allowed their reserves at the Federal to run below the required amount over the week-end, as, under the semi-weekly adjustment of reserves, they had until Tuesday to rectify the situation.

"On Monday, therefore, there was a very heavy calling of loans, probably amounting to $50,000,000 or $75,000,000, and as the result, money climbed steadily to 10 per cent during the afternoon. This high rate, flashed throughout the country, resulting in large offers of funds on the following day from New York and out-of-town banks and from corporations and individuals.

"Brokers demands were quickly satisfied and the balance of funds remaining unloaned were a drug on the market.

"A similar, though less acute situation occurred on July 12th and 13th. On Thursday, the 12th, a comparatively moderate amount of money was called, and the rates firmed up to 8 per cent. This again brought in an excess supply of money, and from the renewal rate of 7½ per cent on Friday, money steadily dropped to 6 per cent in the afternoon, with no demand."

ARE we likely to witness wide swings in call money rates? What influence is the present lending of some $1,500,000,000 of non-bank money likely to have on rates—and on the stock market—in the near future?

These questions will next be taken up.

BEARS' DRIVE FAILS, STOCKS ADVANCE

NEW YORK, July 24.—(AP.)—Aggressive pool operations in a select assortment of specialties turned the course of stock prices upward again today after an early period of irregularity. A "bear" drive against several of the popular industrials in the morning trading quickly petered out when it was discovered that relatively little "long" stock was being dislodged.

Call money was in fairly plentiful supply at the renewal rate of 5½ per cent, although higher money is expected later in the week. Banks called about $10,000,000 in loans during the morning. Talk of 6 and 7 per cent call money continues to have a restrictive effect on trading.

Except for the publication of several favorable earnings reports, including a good June statement by the Union Pacific, which showed net of $1,871,534, as against $1,694,525 in the same month last year, there was little in the day's news to influence the price movement. The resignation of John J. Raskob as chairman of the finance committee of General Motors brought a flurry of selling into that stock, but buying support was quickly supplied, and the early loss materially cut down.

National Cash Register was under brisk accumulation, climbing more than 3 points to a new high record at 66. American Can also was in good demand, and United States Steel common crossed 140 for a gain of about 2 points. Profit-taking checked the resumption of the upward movement in the copper group. Jewel Tea soared 7 points and Lehn & Fink, National Tea, Arnold Constable, Case Threshing and Pittsburgh Coal advanced 2 points or more.

CARNEGIE METALS SAGS LOWER IN LOCAL MARKET

ROUND TABLE of BUSINESS

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

Economies of Unified Operation Reason For Pyramiding of Holding Companies In Utilities Field.

THE economies of unified operation and the benefits of the experience of centralized management and finance have been stressed as the principal reasons for the pyramiding of holding companies in the public utility field. It is undeniable that such savings are possible through mergers. It is difficult to see, however, where there is any unification of operation of a system which haphazardly acquires properties spread over the 48 states, as several systems have done. A holding company which controls a group of properties in Oregon and another in Pennsylvania has added nothing to the progress of centralized operation.

THE judgment and experience of the holding company engineers is better able to solve the problems of the individual units of the system than any local talent which they could obtain. This is another entirely reasonable argument in favor of the holding company, but there has been reason to believe that along with this has come a dangerous abuse from the standpoint of the power consumer. The fees charged to the operating units by these centralized engineering and management boards are sometimes excessive. These are added to the cost of operating the power companies and are often a factor in determining rates. Although the capital structure of the utility companies has no bearing on rates, interlocking arrangements through holding companies make it possible for such juggling of accounts. This does cost the public money.

IT IS true that a large holding company with its investments spread over a wide area can do new financing on a more advantageous basis than a small operating property. It is also true that the investment banking organizations, often found in ultimate control of the holding companies, can extract fees for their services without regard for fairness to stockholders.

THE building of holding company upon holding company has resulted in capital structures which are a hopeless maze for anyone but an accountant. The annual reports of large utility companies are published in the form of a good-sized book. One would imagine that such a mass of statistics would tell the stockholder all that he might ever want to know about his property. Some reports actually do accomplish this purpose, but there are many which are all but meaningless.

IN their extensive propaganda work, the methods of which have been exposed by the Federal Trade Commission, the utilities have made much of the declines in the rates charged customers from year to year. They have pointed to this as justification for the present system of managing power companies. They have not been so frank about the fact that these declining rates have been made possible by the invvention of more modern equipment, which has made astounding reductions in power costs. It is only fair and reasonable that the general public should share in the benefits of such developments.

THE use of the holding company has made possible capital structures with a preponderance of bonds, notes and preferred stocks and a remarkably small proportion of common stocks in whose hands control actually rests. The return on the senior securities is limited to specified annual interest or dividend rates. The return on the common stocks, although they represent a negligible equity in the property, is limited only by the earnings of the holding company. An increase in the earnings of the operating units has no effect on the return on the bonds and preferred stocks. It is all applicable to the one class of common stock of the final holding company.

IN sound finance the limited return on bonds and preferred stocks is compensated for by the fact that there is a large equity behind the securities and that there is greater safety of income. But when these securities represent essentially all of the investment, they are taking the risks of common stocks.

HOLDING company development, when improperly carried out, means that the general public puts up the actual cash to finance the companies and bears the risk, while the great profits accruing from the growth of the industry go to holding company organizers who have invested little or nothing. These risks have not become apparent because of the steady increase in the use of power, but when this boom period comes to an end the true position of the holders of preferred stocks and bonds in holding companies will be more obvious.

THE BUNGLE FAMILY — Pals

DURING A FORMAL CALL UPON THE NEIGHBORS WHO SO RECENTLY MOVED IN NEXTDOOR, BOTH THE BUNGLES AND THE FLOUNDERS AGREED THAT IT IS IMPOSSIBLE TO FIND AGREEABLE NEIGHBORS.
DARLING, I CAN'T TELL YOU HOW GRATIFIED I AM TO KNOW YOU FEEL JUST AS I DO ABOUT MIXING IN WITH NEIGHBORS.
I HAVE NEVER GIVEN THE SNAP OF A FINGER FOR A NEIGHBOR'S OPINION OF ME. THEY'RE VERY COMMON.
EXPERIENCE, BUNGLE, BITTER EXPERIENCE, HAS MADE ME DESPISE THE VERY SIGHT OF A NEIGHBOR. THEY ARE NOTHING. LESS THAN NOTHING! AND YET HOW FEW PEOPLE REALIZE THAT.
ABSOLUTELY! WELL HERE'S THE WAY I LOOK AT NEIGHBORS. NEVER HIT THEM WITH YOUR FIST UNLESS THEY GRAB THE CLUB OUT OF YOUR HAND.
WELL, GEORGE BUNGLE, AT LAST WE HAVE SOMEONE LIVING NEXTDOOR TO US WHO LOOKS AT THE NEIGHBOR PROBLEM AS SENSIBLY AS WE DO.
YES SUH! HE'S GREAT! TO HIM NEIGHBORS ARE MERELY POISON IVY ON THE PATH OF LIFE. HE'S A SMART GUY.
AJAX, AREN'T THOSE BUNGLES NICE! SHE DIDN'T MINCE WORDS IN LETTING ME KNOW SHE CONSIDERS NEIGHBORS TRASH.
HE'S THE MOST BROADMINDED MAN I EVER TALKED WITH ON THIS NEIGHBOR THING. FOR ONCE WE'RE LIVING NEXTDOOR TO PEOPLE TOO SMART TO SNEER AT A MAN WHO KNOWS NEIGHBORS AND KNOWS NOTHING GOOD ABOUT EM.

War on Fining Squire No License to Lawless

The campaign against the greedy "fining squire" is not intended to give greater liberty to the reckless driver of an automobile. That was announced by the Pittsburgh Motor Club, and it is reiterated by Samuel H. Gardner, district attorney. Mr. Gardner says his office is behind the club in its fight against such petty courts as virtually make enforcement of motor laws a means of graft that is profitable to some justices of the peace and constables.

It is quite likely that motorists who ought to be arrested and "get away with murder" because they are not detected exceed the number who are punished unjustly, but that does not make the "speed trap" coterie of justice and constable any less offensive in the eyes of the decent motorist. Let the campaign continue.

The Secret Society

Childish, but It Sticks.

Students at a New York high school are to be expelled because they gave their pictures to newspapers to be printed in connection with their sorority organization. The school authorities say there must be no private organizations inside the public schools, and the girls are to be expelled. Rather harsh.

To DISCOURAGE secret societies is wise. Membership in the United States Republic ought to be enough of a society for anybody.

To ABOLISH secret societies is impossible. Ask the school board members that belong to the Masons, Elks, Lions, Moose, Knights of Columbus, and hundreds of other organizations.

Passion for secrecy goes back to the early days of savagery. It is illustrated by children forming secret societies from which younger children are excluded. Young people, and adults as well, should be shamed out of such foolishness.

Force can't accomplish much.

Centralizing Days

Fewer Performers, Bigger Audience.

An orchestra in Berlin supplied music for an opera sung in Potsdam, 17 miles away. Telephone wires carried the music, loud speakers amplified it.

You can imagine one gigantic orchestra supplying music to all operas or theater in a nation. The Musicians' Union wouldn't care to imagine that.

More centralization, few performers, better performance will be the rule.

Clergymen will preach, professors will lecture, artists will sing and play for tens of millions at a time.

Nothing Is Impossible

This Dare-Devil, an Italian, Proves It.

In India men considered holy sit on sharp spikes, and people give them money partly out of pity, partly out of superstition.

In ancient Christian days Saint Simon Stylites lived year after year on top of a high column, a frightfully uncomfortable and very dangerous existence. The pious doubtless gave him money, although being a really Holy man he didn't need it and very likely gave it all to the poor.

At the same time he might have been wiser, had he come down off his column and gone to work for the poor, instead of staying up there to be admired.

HUGO ZACONINI "DOING HIS STUNT."

Nowadays excitement is required and you see here the fashion in which that fearless Italian, Hugo Zaconini, supplies what is wanted.

He crawls into the mouth of a big cannon and is shot 200 feet into the air, falling in a net prepared to receive him.

There is an explosion and smoke as he is shot out of the cannon. But the cause of it is not gunpowder, but a well-arranged spring, shooting him out gradually, that sends him up 200 feet. If he was shot up 200 feet by an actual explosion of powder, there would only be ONE Zaconini appearance of THAT kind.

However, gunpowder or a well-arranged spring with a little powder to make it seem exciting, this feat is an amazing one, and it is necessary to give space to this big picture to make clear what the man does.

The interesting question is WHY DO WE LIKE TO SEE OTHER PEOPLE RISK THEIR LIVES? Why are we so excited about people who have flown across the ocean, rolled over Niagara Falls, or jumped off the Brooklyn Bridge?

It's because we dread anything that means danger to life, and instinctively feel a deep interest in what threatens life and shows contempt for death.

A TONIC

Garrett P. Serviss Says:

Shortening Summer Days

HERE we are past middle of July, and, although the warmest period of the year is probably yet some weeks ahead of us, the sun is already fast sinking toward the south, having gone down in declination two degrees, or four times its own apparent diameter, since the summer solstice, which occurred on June 22. The days have coincidentally shortened, as a glance at an almanac will show. At the time of the solstice the noon sun poured its rays upon the earth, in latitude 40 degrees north, from a point which most persons would have judged to be vertically overhead. In fact, the inclination was about 16½ degrees from the vertical; that is, from the zenith. But by August 1 the noon sun will pass the meridian 21¾ degrees south of the zenith, and then the most careless observer will clearly perceive that it is far from being directly overhead.

This process of decline in the sun's declination, accompanied by gradual shortening of the day, will go on with increasing rapidity until the autumn equinox, September 23, at which time the sun will reach and cross the equator, bringing astronomical spring to the doors of people living in the southern hemisphere, while leaving us to face the coming winter across what we may hope will be the golden fields of autumn.

But few except astronomers are ever aware of the accelerated descent of the sun during the middle and later weeks of summer, because the temperature of the air and earth continues to increase for weeks after the sun has fallen from its high solstitial estate, and the days have begun to shorten. This seems to some a contradiction to the statement of science that the change of the seasons is governed by the altitude of the sun, and that winter freezes because during its reign the sun is so far down in the southern sky that its low sloping rays cannot effectively heat the atmosphere and the ground.

Science nevertheless is right, and she has a perfectly valid and evident explanation to give to the apparent contradiction of her law. The explanation is this: Just as it requires a certain lapse of time to bring a flatiron to a high temperature when placed on a kitchen range, so the surface of the earth must lie under the sun's rays for a long time before the heat derived from them can thoroughly warm the soil and penetrate to its maximum attainable depth in the ground. The flatiron on the electric range may continue to gain heat even after the current is partly turned off, because the heat that has already been imparted to the iron cannot be radiated away as fast as the heated range still supplies more.

The same principle applies to the heating of the earth by the sunbeams. Even after the sun has declined far toward the equator the amount of heat received by the earth during the daylight hours is in excess of the amount radiated away at night. If it were not for the fact that the loss of heat by radiation from the earth increases with the temperature, this gain of heat would continue clear up to the autumn equinox; but in reality it continues, on the average, for only about six weeks after the summer solstice.

So, we can look with equanimity upon the daily increasing decline of the sun toward the equator during the month of July at any rate, for the shortening days are not likely to bring a real chill until after the sun has sunk well below the equator. A mild autumn makes many seasonal sins forgivable.

Automobile Drivers

WHY so excited and flustrated when driving in congested areas?

What's the use of scowling and swearing at other drivers and arriving at your destination in a wrought-up condition?

What do they care whether or not you are displeased?

Probably they have enjoyed your evidence of discomfort.

The traffic problem grows more complex each year.

Conditions in auto driving will not improve till many more are riding in the air, and it will be some time before this happens.

So automobiles increase in number and you must learn to accept the inevitable gracefully and get some real enjoyment out of your family car.

The man who takes his family out and allows himself to become angered to the point where they cannot have a good time would better stay at home.

A good-natured dad at home is better than an angry one in a car.

Meet the unavoidable with a philosophical mind and get the most out of life for yourself and for your near and dear ones.

Be a good sport while in your car.

It will pay you, it will be appreciated by others.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELS

Great Reward

THERE are men who work for the gold they earn;
All their fond desires to the bright
coin turn,
And they ask of life no payment more
Than to watch the growth of their shining store.

There are others eager to gain renown,
Content in the praise of the staring town.
But sometimes a man through the masses goes
With his joy in his task all the gold
he knows;

With his pride in the work that his hand has done
For the fame that is bright as the golden sun.
Though his fare be poor and his bed be hard,
Unto him alone goes the great reward.

Great Passages from the Bible

"Judge Not"

(Matthew 7; 1-12)

JUDGE not, that ye be not judged.

For with what judgment ye judge, ye shall be judged: and with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again.

And why beholdest thou the mote that is in thy brother's eye, but considerest not the beam that is in thine own eye?

Or how wilt thou say to thy brother, Let me pull out the mote out of thine eye; and, behold, a beam is in thine own eye?

Thou hypocrite, first cast out the beam out of thine own eye; and then shalt thou see clearly to cast out the mote of thy brother's eye.

Give not that which is holy unto the dogs, neither cast ye your pearls before swine, lest they trample them under their feet, and turn again and rend you.

Ask, and it shall be given you; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you:

For every one that asketh receiveth; and he that seeketh findeth; and to him that knocketh it shall be opened.

Or what man is there of you, whom if his son ask bread, will he give him a stone?

Or if he ask a fish, will he give him a serpent?

If ye then, being evil, know how to give good gifts unto your children, how much more shall your Father which is in heaven give good things to him that ask Him?

Therefore all things whatsoever ye would that men should do to you, do ye even so to them: for this is the law and the prophets.

Tales that are Told

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

THEY tell lots of stories about a lady that spent a lot of money trying to make an opera star out of herself, but nobody liked her singing, and she couldn't hire an audience to stay with her through a concert. Well, she knew she had a lot of money left, and so she offered enough dough to buy a house in the country to a great opera director if he'd listen to her sing and give her an opinion.

So she had the whole opera house to herself one afternoon, with only this here director sitting back in a corner, listening to her make loud noises. After an hour of it she went around to him.

"Well," she says, "you see I know my lines, and everything! But I do so want your opinion. I wish you'd decide for me, because I never could really be sure whether I'm a soprano or an alto."

"Huh," he says, and looks at the floor a while. "Well, if you must know, I rather think you are not."

Getting His Own Back

IT WAS a very important point in the evidence, and the counsel who was cross-examining a witness was inclined to be very curt of manner.

"When did the robbery occur?" he barked.

"I—er—think—" began the witness nervously. "I think—er—"

"We are not interested in your thoughts!" snapped the counsel angrily. "We want to hear what you know for certain."

"Perhaps I had better leave the box, then," suggested the witness mildly. "I can't talk without thinking, I'm afraid. I'm not a lawyer."

Too Much to Believe

THE English chauffeur was holding forth in the village inn.

"Yus, my young guvnor rowed for Hoxford a little while back, 'e did."

His audience stared.

"Yus, 'e wins 'undreds of races," went on the chauffeur, warming to his task. "An 'e always 'as the name an' the date painted on 'is scull."

But this was too much for one listener.

"On 'is skull?" he echoed indignantly. "Lumme, 'e must 'ave an 'ead like a elephant!"

New York Day by Day

NEW YORK, July 24.—Recently a New Yorker selected an expensive type of motor car. He ordered certain changes, a few additional trinkets to dude it up, and that night thinking it over—the vast expense of upkeep and such—had a sinking spell.

He sent a frantic wire to the dealer to call the deal off until a more propitious time. The dealer phoned the next day it was all right and to forget it. The following day the customer was again in the mood to buy.

He visited the dealer and told him of his change of heart. "Go ahead with the arrangements," he said, and deposited a substantial sum. To his surprise the dealer told him the car was ready in every particular, even to the monogram on the door.

The explanation was that in a deal of this sort there was always a touch of "cold feet." A purchaser almost invariably reaches a certain point and backs down completely. But in the end recovers his mental poise and the sale is consummated.

Jewelers especially are subjected to this sort of vacillation. Wives buying ropes of pearls in almost every instance arrive at a state of hysteria in the negotiations. They are swept up to the dazzling heights over the prospect, and then drop plummet-like into the depths.

There is the story of the wife of a millionaire who became so unstrung over a $400,000 diamond bracelet deal she wound up in a sanitarium for a month's stay. And the amusing climax was she included another bracelet in the final purchase.

Salesmen who handle such emotionalisms are adept psychologists. The instant a customer begins to waver, they immediately assume an attitude of indifference. For they know if a customer excites himself enough to grow slightly hysterical it will be followed by a calm—and a sale.

Tailors used to be the worst victims of extravagant back downs. Customers who called to buy a single suit often bought a half dozen and after the cloth was cut tried to wiggle out of purchases. The tailor, of course, had to insist on his rights and in the end lost the customer. With a heavy order—unless the customer is well known—the tailor now makes only one suit at a time.

Until a few years ago a customer rarely paid for a tailor-made suit until a year had elapsed. The hapless tailor was forced to wait and say nothing. Now tailors insist upon monthly settlements just as any other merchant. And this information, my dears, does not come in a roundabout way.

* * *

Everyone beginning a writing career has an idea the first requisite is a pull, and so seeks an introduction to literary marts through an established writer. Nothing is so fallacious. No endeavor stands so thoroughly on its own feet as writing, and it happens the so-called pull is often a handicap. Material submitted with a fanfare of trumpeting is likely to be looked upon with a more critical eye than work that comes unheralded.

* * *

Every enterprising editor is interested in discovering a new writer and developing him. This achievement is a real feather in his cap. It requires no ingenuity or discernment to buy or order the wares of the writer who has won success. But when an editor salvages out of the pile of manuscripts one that clicks he has an inclination to let out a wild whoop and ring a few doorbells.

Moses and the Ten Commandments

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Moses was a Jew, the great-grandson of Levi, the great-great-grandson of Jacob, who was the first Israelite, and the great-great-great-great-grandson of Abraham, who was the first Hebrew.

In China they boast of pedigrees 30 centuries long; the only people that can show anything to equal this are the Jews. The proud Jew of this day can look down with contempt upon the Hohenzollerns, the Romanoffs and the Guelphs of Europe, "whose blood has crept through scoundrels since the flood." But to the Egyptians Moses was a slave's son. He was to them as a black baby, born in a Louisiana slave-hut, would have been to the Southern aristocracy in 1850.

Time has a grim humor. The monarchs of Egypt are today only known as contemporaries of Moses. The Czar of Russia will be known as the contemporary of Tolstoy.

Moses goes up into smoking Sinai and has a conversation with the thunder and lightning. What did they say to him? He shows us when he comes down. There on a stone slab are graven the Ten Commandments.

Whether he really spoke with God, or whether he had a hypnotic fit up there in the thunderstorm, the fact remains that in some way he got hold of the toughest, most everlasting and fireproof bundle of truths any son of man ever found.

Nobody ever argues with those Ten Words. They certainly have the smell of thunder about them. When they roar down into the caverns of the soul we know they are as true as ourselves. Philosophers and sensualists, wise men and fools, have gnawed at these same tables of stone, but they stand clear; no substitute has ever been allowed, no amendment has received a respectable vote.

The Ten Commandments are the most important words in history. They were given by Moses to the Jews, but they have been generally accepted throughout Christendom as the foundation of all law and morals.

They are the basis of society in the civilized world.

There is no other instance in history where a rule has been recognized and obeyed by the mass of the most intelligent people for over three thousand years. They are not merely religious teachings inculcated by the church. They lay their restraining hand on every human being.

They function in the home, the market, the street and office. They hold in the wild places of the earth and in the farthest seas.

They speak and they are obeyed or defied wherever there is a human creature.

OH, THESE WOMEN!

By LEOLA ALLARD

NOT much sense in the girls getting puffed up over winning beauty prizes. They are giving them for the prettiest hot dog stands now, all through the East.

Peggy Hopkins Joyce was given a present of eight suits, 41 pairs of hose, three rain coats and other things valued at more than $1,000. The donor, a Miami, Fla., man, got sued for the bill.

After all she has found out about men I'll bet Peggy wonders why the excitement every time she marries another one. We all wonder. The word sap was a great acquisition to the American language.

Speaking of saps, an Eastern lady of 35 married a social register husband of 68 and then called him "that rich old sap." The man is suing for divorce and the wife counters with a suit for alimony and money to pay investigators.

It's bad enough to be investigated, but to be handed the bill!

Because her husband likes slim women and she weighs 250 pounds, he hasn't spoken to her for two years, says a New York woman, who seeks for a legal separation and alimony. She says that silence is cruelty.

And I know men who would consider a little of it a gift from the gods!

A lady, mind you, notices that in a picture of Borglum's new monument to the cowboys, to be erected in Texas, the horses and their riders are up front, and the cattle are following them, prancing onward.

"They don't do it that way in Texas," said the lady. "The cowboys I've seen always herd the cattle. They ride behind them, necessarily."

The New York Bureau of Social Hygiene, after a careful survey, says that "a boy brought up in a family of brunettes finds more solace in blondes."

There is an excuse worth noting. They can say it's because their sisters were brunettes!

Ogden Goelet, say the society editors, wants to marry Louise Groody, and his father doesn't want him to, and says if he does he won't share in his $75,000,000.

In other words, the boy can take his choice—Louise or $75,000,000.

Moral From France

THE French have dismantled the fortifications of Maubeuge. Formerly, and for centuries, an "impregnable fortress," holding back invasion, Maubeuge will henceforth be an open town. The war taught the French that mobility is now the basic principle of defense as well as offense.

When shall we learn the same truth in regard to defense against attack by sea? Our great battleships are merely fixed forts.

Mobility is the principle. And that means air fleets, and better air fleets, and the best air fleets. We call ourselves an alert-minded people, but in some things we seem to imitate the snail.
